Every housekeeper in this city (at least in the principal streets) would follow the laudable example set by a few, of paving their way with flat stones, it would, in a great measure, preclude the necessity of a new pavement; and thus a few shillings laid out now, may perhaps be the means of saving them many pounds, the chief pretence for such a tax being then removed. This too is an improvement of which every inhabitant will reap the advantage, as few of us have coaches, and all of us have feet.

A CARD.

Tuesday, Sept. 5, 1770.

THE Editor of this famous published paper has been in the Kentish Gazette, and and William Gore, having observed a letter in the paper of this day is directed with some expressions, desires to distribute any in or out, he might otherwise be supposed to have no in. The name of William Gore in Church the second, however appears to character of that party different and various his name is in, and the said William Gore is the late or successor of the Great Person, whom his application is directed. In his notice and respectful relations, his Mis-
 is-that he may not be accountable for any debts that he may contract in his name, that the name and desired to inform those persons, that should have distinguished in any of the handling of their former correspondence, William

Sir, let me propose it to your Honour to take off the tax from tallow, and to lay it upon glass-windows, it would be attended with public utility, as it would give great encouragement to illumination, on all like occasions and also a greater terror to all such pitiful snivelling fellows, who should refuse to secure their windows on such easy and equitable terms! But, Sir, I have another request behind, which, might I suggest without giving offence to your Honour, is, that Margate may be dignified with a weekly market and a corporation. This might have been done long ago, I am very sensible, by the means of our Lord of the Manor; but he is an Irish Lord, and votes for the Ministry; and now what good can be expected from such people. And now let me add, Sir, I am proud, Sir, even at the conceit of addressing your Worship, in our fur gowns, like ourselves, and in a manner befitting the dignity of your Aldermanship. This, and many other favours, we are confident we may hope for from your Highness, when you shall have exchanged your cap of liberty for the cap of maintenance! —He spoke, and bowed, and retired. They then severally represented their several grievances."

To the Printers of the KENTISH GAZETTE,
A C A R D.

Tuesday, Sept. 5, 1770.

THE Author of the letters published some time since in the Kentish Gazette, and signed William Steady, having observed a letter in the paper of this day se'ennight with the same signature, desires to disclaim any right or title, he might otherwise be supposed to have to it. The letter of Bishop Burnet to Charles the Second, however opposite to the character of that very dissolute and vicious Prince, carries in it, not the most distant analogy to the life or manners of the Great Person, to whom its application is directed. In his domestic and conjugal relation, his Majesty is invulnerable. It is for this reason, therefore, that he may not be answerable for any mistakes but what are really his own, that the Printers are desired to assure their readers, that the letter thus disavowed is not of the handwriting of their former correspondent, William Steady.

PURSUANT to a Decree of the High Court of Chancery, the Creditors of JOHN LOTT, late of Smeeth, in the County of Kent, Surgeon, deceased, are forthwith to come in and prove their Debts before SAMUEL PECKELL.

P. S. It is supposed he is gone either for Rochester or Lingsfield, as he is well acquainted at both Places.—If he will return within Ten Days to his said Master's Service, he will be kindly received, and no further Notice taken.

Elizabeth, endowed with a good house and a garden, and a salary of 20l. per annum, fixed by the founder, consequently neither improvable or eligible to persons qualified under the regulations made by the founder's executors. One peculiarity must be mentioned: the visitation of the school, and of the schoolmaster, has long since been emancipated out of the hands of the Archbishop of the diocese, and the schoolmaster's place is held at the will of the Lords. The rectory is in the patronage of the Archbishop, and appears to have been of very considerable value in the reign of King Henry VIII. being rated in his Valor at 35l. per annum. The present Rector is the Rev. Mr. Mather. Dr. John Bancroft, Rector of this church 1632, was a benefactor by a donation of Communion Plate, as he was to the see of Oxford, by settling the manor of Cuddesden, with a palace, for their residence, on his successors in that diocese. Biddenden Place, which gave birth to — Henden, Esq; Baron of the Exchequer in the reign of King Charles I. is lately become a small accession to the estates of Horace Man, Esq; A large fair was here annually held on St. Simon and St. Jude, now on Nov. 8. chiefly for the sale of Welch cattle. It seems needless to mention some few donations for the use of the poor, recorded on a tablet in the church; yet since I have mentioned one of Biddenden Tenures, another must not be omitted, of a very singular kind; a parcel of land, adjoining to the glebe, of the yearly rent of 20l. for the use of the poor, is held by the churchwarden, by a dole of small rolls of bread, distributed to strangers and others, whom curiosity invites on Easter-day, marked with an impression intended to represent Two Maiden Sisters, who grew together from the waist downwards till they were considerably advanced in years, and were so united in their affections to this parish, as to join in a bequest of the lands above mentioned."

PURSUANT to a Decree of the High Court of Chancery, the Creditors of JOHN LOTT, late of Smeeth, in the County of Kent, Surgeon, deceased, are forthwith to come in and prove their Debts before SAMUEL PECKELL, Esq; one of the Masters of the said Court, at his Chambers in Symond's Inn, Chancery-lane, London; or in Default thereof, they will be excluded the Benefit of the said Decree.

The Creditors, by applying to Mr. BUCK of Faverham, may be informed of the necessary Proofs to be made for establishing their respective Debts.

 deceased,

WITH her grateful Thanks to the Gentlemen and Ladies of this City and County, for the many Favours her Family have experienced in the Course of Fourteen Years past, in which her late Husband has been employed in the Instruction of young Gentlemen and Ladies in Dancing, begs leave to acquaint them, that a Copartnership is intended between her and Mr. CHARLES VINCENT, and that they will carry on the Schools in this City and those at Ashford, Wye, Faversham, and other Places. PHILPOT used to teach; and that Mr. VINCENT, who has been regularly educated in this Profession and Music, will constantly attend the Schools on the usual Days, and with that particular Care and Attention to the Improvement of such young Gentlemen and Ladies as they may be favoured with, and which they doubt not but will give due Satisfaction.

CANTERBURY, MAY 28.

WILLIAM LEE, Dancing-master, THINKS it his Duty and Interest, on the Death of Mr. PHILPOT, late Dancing-master in this City, to inform his Friends, that having been near Three Years in this County, and taught at Dover, Deal, Folkstone, and Hythe, (from all which Places he can have a very sufficient Character of his Abilities as a Master, being resident so long in this County, and a Freeholder of it) hopes to meet with the same Favour and Encouragement he has already experienced, before any Stranger, provided his Abilities are equal, which he doubts not, as no Care shall be wanting to instruct the young Ladies and Gentlemen, committed to him for that Purpose, in the most approved Methods of Dancing, with a proper Attention to their good Behaviour in School-hours. Such Gentlemen and Ladies who are pleased to favour him with their Children, may be assured of a diligent Attendance, and careful Observation of his Duty, by Their much obliged humble Servant.

WILLIAM LEE.

He continues teaching in Jury-lane, every Monday Forenoon, and Thursday Afternoon.

curiosities lately brought from the East, Mr. Sykes has a diamond of such size that it is too big even for the hand, and is, perhaps, the largest diamond ever brought to Europe.

The mentioned diamond was presented to a Nabob. It is kept in a kind of case, fastened to the middle of a chain of gold curiously wrought. The purchase lately made by Mr. Sykes brought an immense fortune to the Nabob of Lord V's estate and as lately added to them another fortune, of the value of forty-five thousand pounds, and also the Lowther estate in Yorkshire.

The Musical entertainment of the Theatre cannot be perform'd after Monday for some time, on account of a New MIMIC ENTERTAINMENT, which is to be produced at the Theatre in this city.

Monday the Right Honourable the Holderness, Lord Warden of the Ports, and the Commissioners of the Customs, held their quarterly sessions at the Court-house, and afterwards dined at the Swan Inn. Tuesday a Pilots Court was held at the Fountain tavern; when three of the Pilots belonging to Dover, for neglect of duty, were suspended for one year.

Tuesday in the afternoon, the match Running-between the Gentlemen of Chilham and the Gentlemen of East Kent, was played at Bridge-Hill, as advertised in our last paper. Chilham Gentlemen caught the three first strokes, East Kent the next two, Chilham the next one each, and Chilham the next three, which determined the match in favour of the Gentlemen of Chilham, seven to three. There was a very numerous appearance of a well-dressed company, who were well entertained with the sport of the day; and what added to the general satisfaction was, that the whole match was won without a single dispute.—After the match was over, a tye was proposed to be played between Mr. Law of the Chilham side, and Mr. Boyce of the East Kent, twenty rods for twenty guineas, which was agreed to by both parties; and it is expected it will be decided at Chilham-park the day that the returned match is played.

On Saturday evening as ——— Wigger Esq; of Greenwich, was at supper with his lady the footman who was waiting, fell down dead with a plate in his hand, which so much surprized Mrs. Wigger, that she fell down and expired immediately after him.

On Sunday last, died at Tenterden, Mr. John Marshall, jun. a young gentleman universally respected by all his acquaintance.
