Postscript.

LONDON, MONDAY, Feb. 28.

ESTERDAY their Majesties, Princesses Royal, Augusta, and Elizabeth, with the customary attendants, went to St. George's Chapel, at Windsor, where they heard divine service, and a sermon by the Canon in Residence, and afterwards returned to the Queen's Lodge to dinner, and were not abroad the remainder of the day. The three younger Princesses heard divine service in the apartments at Buckingham-house. And this day the King, Queen, and three eldest Princesses, return to town from Windsor to dinner; and in the evening the Royal Family propose going to Drury-lane Theatre.

CONSTANTINOPLE.

The following very alarming intelligence was circulated there on the 13th of December last: "The grand fleet of Russia has been seen within a very little distance of Varna, and the second division of this fleet has captured twelve vessels laden with corn, for the support of our markets."

This report, with the arrival of an express from the army of the Grand Vizir, whose dispatches were kept secret, had excited so much consternation, that the populace assembled in several quarters of the city, and, in positive terms, demanded the conclusion of a peace.

The dread of the Russian vessels was so great on the European coasts, that even the fishermen had taken refuge in the canal. No preparations were made for sending out another fleet, and the sole dependence of the Turks was upon that of Algierines, which had sailed for Varna a few days before.

The British Minister at Warsaw has invited the public of Poland to conclude a treaty of alliance and commerce with our Court.

The foreign Gazettes confirm the intelligence, and the Court of Copenhagen has been solicited by our Minister, to join the alliance of Great-britain, Prussia and Holland.

The Danes, upon this occasion, may be influenced, not only by a general fondness for peace, but by some particular objections to a dispute with the Court of Russia, in a contest in which their interests may be diminished, while they are not sensible of the protection of other powers, when the alliance with Turkey has ceased.

These apprehensions may serve for a time to facilitate negotiation for action, and the latter certainly not be adopted, before it is necessary; but, in the event, if the successes of the press against the Porte continue, and the Danes pressed to take a part in the contest which may

Friday last, in the House of Peers, the Lord Chancellor waited an hour, before a single Peer came into the House; at last a Committee of seven was formed, and the further hearing of the Cobanders Claim of Parage was adjourned to the 12th day of May next.

BOTANY-BAY FLEET.

We have received the following authentic account of the Botany Fleet, from a correspondence of rank and importance in society; and though we have no reason to be in good humour with Ministers, we scorn to indulge a prejudice in an affair of so much consequence to the happiness of two classes of people; the account itself will best shew its impartiality and its importance.

Extract of a letter from Gravesend, Feb. 24.

"The convicts are daily arriving in great numbers from Newgate and Maidstone gaol, and are received on board the Albemarle and the Barrington; the Active is intended to serve as a store ship; and these compose the whole of the Botany-Bay fleet now lying at this port. One man and one woman convict have just received his Majesty's gracious pardon.

"The 200 women convicts who are gone round to Portsmouth in the Mary Anne, were all dressed in the government livery before they sailed. They are permitted to come upon deck in the day time, to take a little fresh air; but, as the ship is extremely crowded, the officers are under the necessity of confining them below at night—two women in a small bed-place—which, though very disagreeable to the disposition of the Captain, who has the character of a humane man, is now become necessary, as more women have been sent already down by Government than the ship, which is but a small one, was calculated to carry out to New South Wales.

"The men convicts are constantly confined, and in irons of 24lb. weight. They are allowed to come up from below for air, by two or three at a time. The ships have contrivances of spring hatches between the masts, so that the convicts, many of whom are desperate, cannot rise against the officers without being overcome.

"The Albemarle is of 500 tons burthen, the Barrington 600, and the Active 400; and, when ready to sail, will rendezvous at Portsmouth and Plymouth Sound with the Mary Anne, of 330 tons; the Mitilda of 500, the Queen of 330, the Salamander of 340, and the William and Ann of 290 tons, which, together with the men of war appointed to convoy them, compose the principal ships bound to the South Seas.

"The reports circulated here, as to the state of the ships, and their incapacity to perform so long a voyage, if impartially examined by the backwards, it broke and bent in some of the windows of Mr. Post, upholsterer, adjoining.

On Sunday the river overflowed the meadows and levels. Great apprehensions were entertained of a flood; the water being higher than at any time since the great flood in 1776; but it is now nearly returned to its original course.

At Ashford, at the Royal Oak tavern, a chimney in its fall dreadfully mangled a servant maid, broke both her legs, one of them in two places, and otherwise bruised her. Also a chimney of Mr. Reeves, turner, was blown down.

At Wye, Mrs. Fairbrass; and at Beaksbourn, Mr. Peckham, had chimneys blown down, but nobody hurt.

The storm has made great havoc in the orchards, gardens, and public roads; trees in great abundance being torn up by the roots.

From Margate we learn, that on Saturday a Dutch sloop, with 24 Flanders horses, bound for Ipswich, in Suffolk, was drove on shore off Birchington, and that 16 of the horses beat themselves to death. A brig, loaded with bale goods and gunpowder; and a sloop, are also on shore between Birchington and Reculver. Carts and waggons were on Sunday busily employed in bringing the cargoes to Margate.

On Sunday a large ship, name unknown, struck on Margate Sands; boats went off yesterday morning, about seven o'clock, to their assistance.

At Herne, one of the hoys that was heavy laden, ~~belonging to Mr. Colgate~~, broke from her moorings and drove on shore, where she bulged, and damaged the cargo, consisting of corn and hops. The violence of the surf prevented any boats putting off to assist, and the crew remained in the shrouds for six hours.

At Whitstable, a brig is on shore, and several of the small craft in the hoy of ~~Mr. New and Samuel~~, was drove from her moorings, and went on shore, but did not receive any damage.

Extract of a letter from Dover, Feb. 28.

"Saturday the wind was so violent here that several chimneys were blown down, and two small houses that were building near the limekilns, which were carried up beyond the second floor, were levelled with the ground.

"Last night a brig was towed on shore by boats, about a mile to the eastward of this place, bottom upwards; in which situation she had been picked up at sea, off the Foreland, the preceding day. Her name is unknown, but she is supposed to have been bound from some port in Holland to London.

"An opening was made in her bottom this morning, and she proves to be laden with brandy, butter, juniper berries, musical instruments, and various other goods. A case was this afternoon taken out of her, containing samples of old brandy

impatience when the last express came Extract of a letter from Paris, Feb. 21.

His Majesty's Aunts left this place on the 1st inst. at ten in the evening: they had intied their intention to return to Paris on the day, but having heard that some opposition might be offered to their departure, they hastened forward on their journey. Reports have been circulated that they were intercepted at Fontaineau; but after a slight interruption at Moret, they were permitted to depart, and proceeded on their way to sleep at Auxerre.

The President, on Sunday last, read the following letter from the King to the National Assembly:

"Gentlemen,

Having learnt that the Assembly has directed its Committee of Constitution to examine the individuals of the Royal Family en, under present circumstances, separate themselves from the head of the nation, I think myself bound to inform the Assembly, that I was made acquainted with the departure of my aunts at ten yesterday evening. As I imagine that, consistently with the principles of Liberty, no person can be prevented from going where they please, I did not deem it proper to throw any obstacles in the way of their departure, though I beheld it with regret.

LOUIS."

M. Camus rose immediately to move that a sum of money adequate to the expences of those labouring households might be made in the civil list.

This was opposed by Mons. Martineau, as not consistent with the dignity or justice of the Assembly; he demanded the order of the day which the Assembly immediately passed to.

Madame du Barré is arrived in London to see her jewels. How differently are the same things rewarded; Madame du Barré, for her secretes, is presented with diamonds, with pensions, &c. Poor Madame D'Eon, for her secretes to the same Monarch, in another way,
for having contracted debts as his Minister, obliged to sell her jewels, her books, her pictures, her dresses, her fabrics, &c.—every thing indeed that can compose the wardrobe of a Captain regiment and of a Lady.

The Minister has so many good things at present in his gift, by deaths and resignations, that he is said to be "The Treasury droppeth fatness."

PRIZES IN THE PRESENT LOTTERY
Monday, No. 45901, 45888, 10001. No. 21715,
No. 3076, 17712, 32205, 34406, 34801, 48677.

that it will reflect much honour on the Ministry,
as well as on the supporters of Sir Charles Bun-bury's motion to enquire into the truth of their schemes for sea; and common prudence will dictate their undergoing such an examination, which can easily be done, at Spithead, without retarding them many days.

The convicts themselves, some of whom are connected with ship builders and sea-faring men, have reported at Gravesend, that the Mary Anne is not fit for the voyage, being at least 8 years old, as there are no French built ships like her,
that are registered and trade as English bottoms, but what were taken and condemned as prizes last war. Consequently she cannot be strong enough to venture the lives of so many persons in, if the report be true.

The Albermarle, also, is said to be French built, and old; the Matilda, the same; the Queen, American built, and old; the William and Anne, French built, and old; the Active, too, French built, and old. And two of the ships, of 500 tons, are said to have been so bad that they were purchased by their present owners for 500l.
each; and one of them was sold for breaking up, being condemned, till she was fitted and painted up for this service.

Some impartial examination is certainly due for the removal of such reports, which are rather gathering belief than otherwise; and some immediate means ought to be taken to relieve the difficulties which the officers and seamen on board the Mary Anne experience already, from the country goalkers having crowded more women convicts into that ship than she can possibly stow away. The Contractor, by his agreement with Government, was not to put more than one person to two tons, and she has already on board 35 too many. This indeed deserves attention, as it must make a vast difference in so small a ship, as to foul air and healthiness, and more especially in very hot weather, when they approach the line."

DAMAGES BY THE LATE WIND.

Saturday morning early, a most violent storm of wind, from the north-east, accompanied with rain and sleet, came on, and continued with encreasing fury till Saturday evening, when it began to abate. The gusts were so sudden and tremendous as to occasion continual alarms. The damage sustained in this city was not very considerable. Several houses were in part unroofed, windows blown in, and some walls and palling blown down; but the most material was a chimney at the house of J. Baker, Esq. in St. Dunstan's, which beat in part of the roof, broke the rafters, and two ceilings. Also a chimney, belonging to Mr. Gipps, draper, in High-street, which in its fall formed a kind of arch, cleared
the roof, and spread across the street. Providenall perished."

Extract of a letter from Deal, Feb. 28.

Friday afternoon a violent gale of wind came on from the eastward, which in a few hours increased to a perfect hurricane. About eight o'clock in the evening the brig Polly, Harrison, master, from Shields bound to Poole, laden with coals, parted from her anchors and drove on shore on the Flats, below Sandown Castle, and in a short time went entirely to pieces. The vessel and cargo were consequently lost, and the Captain and crew with much difficulty saved.

During the gale many chimnies were blown down, and the roofs of several houses thereby broken through, even to the lower floors. Pro-videntially no lives were lost. Notwithstanding the deadness of the tides the sea fell in uncommonly heavy, and the keys along the town have again received very considerable damage. A dwelling-house opposite the Scarborough Cat, near the north end, was undermined, and a part thereof fell a victim to this outrageous element.
Indeed its rapid encroachments on this neighbourhood become truly alarming, and unless some effectual step is speedily taken the consequences must be fatal.

Yesterday afternoon the Mentor, Willocks, from London to the coast of Africa (the only ship in the Downs) was, thro' the violence of the wind, obliged to cut from her cables and run to the Westward; she had Dover people on board, and was waiting here for fresh hands, the crew hav-

About eleven o'clock this morning, the wreck of a large ship, to appearance, was seen driving through the Downs bottom upwards, it is thought she must have been lost on the Goodwin, and boats are gone from hence to endeavour to take her in tow.

This morning a large ship was discovered on the sand totally dismantled, and the Deal, Dover, and Lizard boats are crowding off to her as fast as possible. At the return of the boats from the said vessel, nothing but her stern was above water.
She appears to be a Swede, laden with timber,
&c. and not a soul on board."

During the inclement weather on Saturday night last, a poor lad, employed as a chimney sweeper, perished under the hill leading from Folkstone to Dover.

Extract of a letter from Lewes, Feb. 28.

On Monday last, a new-raised Independent Company of Foot, who had been quartered a short time at Dorking, refused to quit that place, and proceed on their route to Hilsley Barracks, agreeably to the commands of their officers. The non-commissioned were ordered with their drawn swords to enforce obedience, and the men were at length prevailed on to get out."

Wednesday last was married at Hilsley

Although the supply of wheat to-day was rather yet the sale was heavy (having few country buyers) and declined in price near a shilling per quarter. Fine barley was scarce, and met quick sale, at 2s. 2d. a few samples reached 2s. 6d. but the thin inferior samples very heavily. We had not many buyers of malt, but that unless fine and well cured, they could not be our consumers will not touch the coarse samples at any price. Rye and good hard beans sold off readily, had no great supply of oats to-day, yet they went off as our buyers are in daily expectation of large foreign plies, as soon as the winds are favourable.

London, July 4. Accounts from all parts except Farnham and Worcester say, the plantations grow worse every day, by reason of the increase of vermin and honey; and that the present blatt, if it continues much longer must be fatal. Conjectures here respecting the ensuing crop are various; some of the dealers think we shall not grow next year 50,000, whilst others differ so widely as to lay the duty at 100,000, great odds are taken either way; in consequence of which the merchants and brewers are at a loss how to proceed, and the market at present is quite at a stand, Bags 5l. 5s. to 6l. 6s. Canterbury, July 4. Accounts from East Kent in general say, the Hops are still covered with vermin; the late thunder storm, as we predicted, though it has given them a fresh appearance has increased the lice to a great degree, and the honey begins to appear again in many places. From West Kent and Suffex, they say the blatt was never stronger in any preceding year, the leaf is loaded with vermin and honey, is turning black, and there is a great complaint for want of bind. A few grounds about this city are more free from vermin, and continue to grow and look fresh, yet these it is supposed are not out of danger, as the grounds round them are so much infected.

The accounts of the Hops from the Weald of Kent, say the bind since the last thunder storm, has turned yellow, and that the large black bug has made its appearance.

RECEIVED LAST NIGHT EXPRESS FROM PARIS.

National Assembly, Thursday June 30.

The President informed the Assembly, that he had just received two letters from M. Bouille; one directed to himself, and the other for the Assembly. The letter to the President mentions his having enclosed one for the National Assembly, which he believes they will find sufficiently interesting for their inspection and consideration.

A warm debate then ensued on the motion, that the Letter be read, which was carried in the affirmative—the following is nearly a copy.

Luxembourg, June 28, 1791.

“The King has just made an attempt to break his fetters; a blind destiny, has however, ordered it otherwise. The King is still a captive; his days, and those of the Queen, are days of trouble; and I tremble at the disposition of a people, which your measures have rendered ferocious. You are every where become the object of contempt. It is interesting for me, and even necessary, that the grand object should be known. The King sought only the salvation and happiness of a people unjust and cruel.

India, with which we have been kindly favoured by a correspondent on board the Pitt, off Dover, the 30th ult. which, though they contain nothing decisive, give us the satisfactory information that our army led on by the gallant Cornwallis, was in February last rapidly moving to the Mysore country, where, shortly, we have a hope, grounded upon the skill and patriotism of the Commanders, and the known valour of our Men, of hearing of the complete humiliation of the Eastern enemy of Great Britain.

Yesterday in the afternoon his Grace the Archbishop of Canterbury consecrated an additional burying ground in Longport, for the use of the parish of St. Paul; and on Friday next he will consecrate the new chapel at Ramsgate.

Margate begins to have a very lively appearance, and has now more visitors than ever was known at this season of the year.

Wednesday morning, which was remarkably fine, gave an opportunity for upwards of 250 people to breakfast at Dandelion—it was the first public breakfast this season.

Extract of a letter from Chatham, June 30.

“On Wednesday last was played, on Bearsted Green, near Maidstone, the interesting Match of Cricket, between Clifford of Bearsted, and Palmer of Brompton.

“The bets ran high, before the Match began, in favour of Clifford; after the first innings they changed two to one in Palmer's favour.

“We have to remark, that the game was played by each of them in a superior stile, and was pleasing to a number of spectators.

The game is as undermentioned:

“A game of Cricket will be played on Monday next, by three of Chatham against three of Strood, for 100 guineas, at the Star, on Chatham Hill.

“The Hon. the Commissioners for victualling his Majesty's Navy, have been pleased to appoint Mr. Thomas Turner, to be First Clerk in the Cheque Office; Mr. Thomas Church, to be Third Clerk in the Storekeeper's Office; and Mr. John Stevens to be Fourth Clerk in the Agent's Office, at this port.

“Yesterday a young man, a house carpenter, went to work a few miles from this place, and being in excessive heat, drank a quart of cold water, which is supposed to be the occasion of his death which happened soon after.

and indicted, for beginning to pull down the dwelling house of Wm. Hutton.

After Mr. Newnham had made a very few remarks on this case, four witnesses were called for the prosecution, men of irreproachable characters, and whose evidence was very consistent. They all swore positively that the prisoner at the bar was extremely active in pulling down the house of the prosecutor; that they saw him knocking the windows to pieces with a bludgeon, and committing other acts of violence.

A witness appeared for the prisoner, who said, that Whitehead instead of being an enemy, was a friend to Mr. Hutton, because when a picture of Garrick in the character of King Lear and a curtain rod had been thrown out at one of the windows, and one of the mob was going to carry them away, the prisoner prevented them, and said no man should touch them, but some person that belonged to the premises.

His Lordship said, if the four witnesses for the prosecution had not spoken truth, they must be perjured. It was for the Jury, however, to say what degree of credit they would give to the different witnesses.

They thought fit to acquit the prisoner, which rather surprized some people.

The Council for the Crown were Mr. Newnham, Mr. Coke, Mr. Sutton, Mr. Percival.

For the Prisoner Mr. Clarke and Mr. Willis.

On Friday last, Robert Cooke (one of the men who set fire to Mr. Russell's offices at Showel-green, during the Birmingham riots) and Richard Pittaway, for a robbery at Droitwich, were executed at Red Hill, near Worcester.

extremely apprehensive of his danger, the inferiority of his forces in the event of engagement. He himself had shewn great activity in making rapid marches to overtake Cornwallis, previous to his reaching the point, which was on the 4th of March. Lord Cornwallis has written home, that he had not the least doubt of success. It was intended to storm the fort about the 15th of March, as Lord Cornwallis chose to besiege it regularly than make a sudden attack, which might prove unsuccessful. General Abercrombie, with the Bombay forces which the public already know, was 60 miles to the westward of Seringapatam, where he had entrenched himself in a very strong situation by nature, and was out of the reach of Tippoo. Here he intended to remain until Bangalore was taken, and until such time as he received Lord Cornwallis's instructions, either to advance him in laying siege to Seringapatam or to retreat with stores and provisions, as might be required. It was believed that this judicious plan would have succeeded, and that the two armies could not fail to ensure the most certain success.

Mr. Gideon Hewitt, one of the Extraordinary Gentlemen to his Majesty. His death was occasioned by his horse falling with him on Wednesday morning in Pall-Mall.

Mr. Hewitt had been dispatched on Sunday night as Secretary of State's Office, with a letter for a convict who was to be executed on Monday morning at Salisbury, which duty he performed with success. And on Wednesday morning he was dispatched to Mr. Dundas at Hambleton, his return from which place he met with this fatal accident.

Mr. Dundas, upon hearing of the misfortune, with great humanity sent Mr. John Hunter, with orders to give Mr. Hewitt every possible assistance. He was trepanned on Thursday evening; but the concussion of the brain was too violent for the skill of the most able physician to counteract.

PLYMOUTH, Aug. 24.

Ordered the Spider cutter, Capt. Lanyon, from the fleet. The Iphigenia frigate, of 32 guns, Capt. Boscawen, and the Ranger revenue cruiser, Capt. Boscawen, both on a cruise.

Ordered down yesterday from between the island of Main, his Majesty's brig Ferret, and the Sound, with the Bombay Castle, Columbus, Colossus, and Illustrious, of 74 guns each, and the Druid frigates.

The reason assigned for the above men of war not to be ordered to their moorings, is, that an engagement taken place between the seamen and a regiment of foot, in barracks at Dock, in which several on both sides were slightly wounded, ground at Stopham, in Sussex, for the first lock on the canal from thence to Midhurst.

Extract of a letter from Lewes, Aug. 27.

"Last Wednesday nine women and a boy (gypsies) were committed to Petworth Bridewell, on suspicion of breaking open the dwelling house of a poor man at Warnham, in Sussex. Three men and one woman belonging to the same gang, were committed to Horsham gaol the same day, charged with being concerned in the above robbery. One man made his escape.

"Last Wednesday the Brighton Society of Freemasons met at their Lodge there, and partook of a sumptuous supper, provided in honour of the birthday of the Duke of Clarence, their Royal Patron, which they celebrated in a manner truly Masonic.

"Mr. Glazebrook, of Rodmel, raised a turnip last year, from the Norfolk seed, that weighed twenty-seven pounds and a half, and many others were pulled in the same field, nearly of equal weight."

Yesterday was committed to St. Dunstan's gaol, by G. Knowler, esq. Morris Stephens, charged on the oath of John Hill, of St. John the Baptist, in Thanet, and Elizabeth Jarman, of the Borough of Staplegate, with having on Sunday last, in the parish of Sturry, stolen one shirt, one pair of stockings, and a linen handkerchief, the property of the said John Hill.

On Wednesday evening a fire broke out at Deptford, which was occasioned by a pitch-pot boiling over, which caught fire, and communicated to some articles of a combustible nature. The houses of Mess. Racket, Jones, Bracey, Woodward, Portyer, and several others, were either wholly destroyed, or much damaged. It was at length got under by the assistance of the engines and people belonging to his Majesty's dock-yard. A fireman, of the name of Mann, belonging to the Phoenix Office, in jumping from the engine-carriage, to assist the driver, fractured his skull, and broke one of his thighs, besides being otherwise hurt, insomuch that his life is despaired of by the Faculty attending him.

CANTERBURY, Aug. 23.

Dr ARNOLD having experienced many civilities and kind attentions from his friends in Canterbury, cannot quit the City without leaving his public testimony of grateful thanks behind him.

In addition to our last account of the musical festival, on Friday noon, by desire of many of the Subscribers, a selection, consisting of some of the most admired airs from the Messiah and Redemption, in which Signora Storace and Miss Poole shone with their usual abilities, was performed in the Sermon-House of the Cathedral. Though the notice was short, near two hundred persons were present. Mr. Cramer and Mr. Parks, played two concertos on the violin and hautboy, which appeared to the highest advantage in a room so admirably calculated for the occasion.

The Theatre on Friday evening was also well attended.—In the first Act Miss Poole sung "sweet bird", and Signora Storace "mad bees" both of which were given in a most enchanting style. In the second Act Storace's favourite air "With lowly suit," from no Song no Supper, enraptured the audience; and being enchored, she obligingly complied, and retired amidst the united applause of the whole house.

Every praise is due to Dr. Arnold for the liberal manner in which he conducted this festival, having spared no expence.

In our last account we mentioned, by mistake, Miss Poole in "he shall feed his flock like a shepherd".—This charming air was allotted to Master Sharp, one of the young gentlemen of the Chapel Royal, who did it infinite justice.

This day our Races commence on Barham Downs, at which great sport is expected, as there are six and twenty horses at Bridge Hill, being a much greater number than has been known for some years:—There are a great many lodgings engaged, and the Assembly Rooms it is supposed will be well attended.—The Hunter's Plate and two Sweepstakes will be run for this day.

Yesterday evening Mr. Hodges, attorney at law, and Mr. Snoulton, woolstapler, were chosen Aldermen of this city in the room of Mr. Francis, and Mr. Robert Staines, resigned.

On Saturday morning came on to be tried at Croydon assizes, a cause which has made no small noise in the county of Surry. It was an indictment for a libellous publication by Wm. Jolliffe, Esq. one of the Magistrates of the county, on Mr. Fanshaw. The jury, after retiring for about ten minutes brought in a verdict—Guilty upon all the four Counts.—Mr. Jolliffe then received sentence of fine and imprisonment.

The trial lasted from nine in the morning, till six in the evening.

The Court was exceedingly crowded, from the expectation which this cause had excited.

It was understood the plea for the original trial was to be withdrawn.

Extract of a letter from Chatham, Aug. 19.

"This morning orders were received here to reduce the number of rope makers belonging to this dock-yard, and to discharge them at the end of this month.

"Orders were at the same time received to reduce the sail makers extra; from double days to one day and a half.

Black Notes, one for ten, the other for fifty, were found as directed, in the thatch, and a handkerchief and some other things, some hay, in the stable; but devoid of knowledge of Pocket-book, &c.—He had borne a good character, and, it is said, was the natural son of a Gentleman of property.

Thursday was committed to St. Dunstan's by J. Dilnot, Esq. Daniel Marsh, and Rye, charged on oath of John Scarlet one of the Overseers of the poor of the parish of All, Daniel Marsh did on the 17th of July last, two pieces of salted pork from out of a poor house of the said parish, and that Edward Rye did receive the same, knowing them to be stolen.

Sunday se'nnight, died at his house in Harley-street, in the 78th year of his age, of a palsy, by which he was attacked the preceding Tuesday, Samuel Dash, Esq. of Shepherd's Esplanade, he has left, except some legacies, to William Sawbridge, a son of his niece Mrs. Sawbridge, and John Sawbridge, Esq. M. P. for the city of London.

CANTERBURY, Aug. 22. The Plantations of the city seem to have received great benefit from the kindly weather, and are turning into hop much better than was expected—Accounts from London state the market being very flat and no business doing whatever at the Letters from Worcester, also speak rather more of the crop—Betts are now laid in London on at $7,000.

against Seringapatam, but was obliged by the Monsoon to raise the siege.

That a general engagement had taken place between Tippoo and Lord Cornwallis, under the walls of Seringapatam, which the sudden burst of the Monsoon had rendered indecisive; after which L. Cornwallis retired towards Bangalore.

That great mortality had happened among the bullocks of Lord Cornwallis's army, from the want of forage.

That there was a famine in Tippoo's camp; and that desertions from thence were frequent and numerous.

That the forces of the Mahrattas and the Nizam had been further successful in the capture of many forts and places of consequence from Tippoo, who had sent agents to the Mahrattas to procure for him peace with the English.

As the truth or falsehood of the above accounts will soon be ascertained by the expected dispatches from Bombay, we shall make no comment on them; only observing, that the loss of territory Tippoo has already sustained, and the distresses he must otherwise be involved in, makes it extremely probable that he will consent to a peace on any terms, rather than expose himself to the consequences that must follow the vigorous efforts of the English and their allies after the rains.

Sunday morning died at Parson's Green, after a lingering illness, the Rev. Jeff. Ekins, D. D. Dean of Carlisle, and rector of Sedgfield and Morpeth.

CANTERBURY, Nov. 22.

Extract of a Letter from Dover, Nov. 19.

"Yesterday between eleven and twelve o'clock, their Royal Highnesses the Duke and Duchess of York arrived here from Calais, after a rough and unpleasant passage of more than seven hours. On their landing they were saluted by the cannon from the batteries, and received on the beach by the 14th regiment of foot, now quartered in the castle, under the command of Colonel D'Oyle, and conducted amidst a prodigious concourse of people to the York Hotel. They came over in the Minerva packet, Capt. Hammond. Her Royal Highness was so much indisposed with fatigue and fear, that she fainted in going upon deck, and was put nearly lifeless, in a chair into the boat, waiting to bring them on shore, it being low water; and from the shore she was carried in the same chair by men to the inn; but receiving some refreshment, and going to bed she was happily in full recovery this morning, as to be able to pursue her journey towards London.

"The Duchess of Cumberland and her sister Lady Elizabeth Luttrell embarked at Calais the same day, on board the Duchess of Cumberland, Capt. James White, but fearing they should not procure horses at Dover, sailed for and landed at Ramsgate."

Extract of another letter from Dover, Nov. 19.

"On Friday last arrived at Dover from Calais in ten days, Miss Lane was particularly attentive to all the company, and received those distinguished marks of respect which her many amiable qualities so justly entitle her to. Supper being announced, the numerous guests sat down, and after being sufficiently regaled, they were again entertained with many admirable songs, which were sung with exquisite taste and humour. All were enraptured with the festive amusements of the day, which recalled to mind the ancient English hospitality, a revival of which, is much to be wished. At twelve o'clock the company retired in mirth and jollity, being exhilarated without intoxication, having observed that happy medium, which is equally distant from noisy merriment and the restraint of ceremony.

The coast of Kent has been remarkably favoured this year, by the very great shoals of herrings caught in the channel between Dover and Calais; whilst the north coast of this kingdom, which used to be remarkable for the vast quantities usually taken there and dried at Yarmouth, have had but very few. — Prodigious numbers are dried at Folkestone and other places on the coast, which will afford a sensible benefit to poor families in this county and the adjacent ones at this particular time, when provision of almost every kind is so remarkably dear.

Yesterday a race was run on Barham Downs between a horse belonging to Mr. Southee, Felton, of this city, named Sheepskins, and a horse belonging to Mr. McCann, of Wingham, named Mercury; the race was for one hundred pounds, to run for one hour, and the horse which ran over most ground to be the winner. They run the two-mile course, and started about 37 minutes past twelve o'clock. Odds at starting 6 to 4 on Sheepskins. The first two miles was run in 8 minutes and a half, Sheepskins about three lengths a head on the turn; they came in the second time in 16 minutes and a quarter from the time of starting; the third time 23 minutes and a quarter; the fourth 29 minutes and a quarter; the fifth 35, Sheepskins still keeping a head; the sixth time 41 minutes and three quarters, Sheepskins gaining some lengths in this round; the seventh 48 minutes; the eighth 54 minutes and a half; the ninth 58 minutes and a half, Mercury in this round had got a head, and in turning was about two lengths before; they continued running the remaining minute and a half, Mercury still gaining, and when the hour was expired was about four lengths before, and of course won the wager. Bets on the sixth round were 2 to 1 on Sheepskins, and he continued the favourite till the last round, and then the odds turned in favour of Mercury. It is supposed that upwards of 2000l. were depending on the above race. Each horse carried ten stone.

Tuesday evening, at half past seven o'clock, two footpads stopped a post-coach on Blackheath, in which were four gentlemen, two of whom, a gentleman and his son, they robbed of their watches and money; the other two, naval officers, had the precaution to secret their property, and gave their purses, containing only some silver and halfpence.

When the late General Carruthers, who died at Chatham Barracks a few days ago, was on his death-bed, he sent for the officer next in command, to request that his funeral might not be attended with any military parade, but that it should be private, and at an early hour. This mode, continued the expiring hero, will not prevent such of the garrison who respected me when living, seeing the last sad duties done to my memory when dead.

A private soldier at the same time lay in the agonies of death, and while humility and resignation alone occupied the last moments of his General, he was anxiously soliciting his serjeant to bestow his arrears of pay in a handsome burial. To those who should fire over his grave, he bequeathed a plentiful supply of good cheer, and to all who might follow his corps to the grave, something to drink to his memory.

The sick soldier arrived about the same time to comply with the price of Bags 5l. to 5l. 8s.

Accounts returned to the Excise Office, some short time since, state the number of public houses in Great Britain to be upwards of 76,000.

The Emperor of Germany adds a dignity to the Imperial diadem, by the goodness of his heart, and by the wisdom of his head, for both are exhibited by his conduct to those over whom he reigns. He shows mercy to his revolted subjects, and endears himself to those who have not revolted, by a restoration to those rights, of which, by former Sovereigns, they have been dispossessed.

Mr. Wrexhall, Member for Wallingford in Berkshire, and well known by his travels through Russia, is mentioned as likely to succeed Mr. Todd in the Secretaryship of the Post-office.

Woodcote Park, the Mahometan villa of the celebrated Lord Baltimore, of pleasurable memory, after an endless variety of successive tenants, is now become the possession of Lewis Tenier, Esq.

Since Mr. Fitzherbert received the picture of the Spanish Monarch, set in diamonds, Madame Swellenbergen has constantly conducted herself towards him with a mixture of the most delicate tenderness and admiration.

The Shark sloop, which, upon the signing of the Convention, was dispatched after Admiral Cornish, did not reach Madeira, till five days after the sailing of his squadron. Minutely, however, in their anxiety to add the ships and the men to the squadron now lying at Portsmouth, for the intimidation, at least, of the Emperor, have lately dispatched two very fast sailing vessels, to look for him in different parts of the West Indies.

The Minister, by proposing a retrograde tax under the plea of relieving posterity from the expences of the late armament, reverses the usual order of taxation. Every other Minister has been content to make the future pay for the past; he is resolved to make the past pay for the future.

The officers of the Royal Regiment of Artillery gave an entertainment, on Tuesday last, at their mess room, Woolwich, to General Koehler who served during the last campaign in Flanders.

The Ode for the New Year, being the first poetical effusion on the subject, by Mr. Pyle, the Laureat, will not be performed at St. James's until the 18th of January, her Majesty's birthday.

Saturday morning arrived at the General Post Office, one Leeward Island mail, by the Speedy packet, Captain D'Anvergne, after a passage of 34 days from Falmouth.

The Speedy, we are informed, is ordered round to the River to be sold; and that the service should not suffer by a diminution of the packets, her place will be filled by his Majesty's packet the Carteret, launched about three weeks ago.

The Carteret is built by Government for the express purpose of fast sailing, and is the first vessel that takes out the perpetual log invented by the ingenious Mr. Godolphin, which is so constructed as to ascertain the exact distance the ship runs in 24 hours.

There is also an engine fixed on board to act as a pump for pumping the ship, or as an extinguishing engine for carrying water to any part of the ship in case of fire.

Extra of a letter from Plymouth, Dec. 30.

Last night arrived the Boyne, of 98 guns, from the eastward, and the Fury sloop, with two transports full of troops for Gibraltar. The Boyne is to be paid off, but the Fury and the transports sailed this morning for Gibraltar.

Orders came down this day to stop the paying off any more men of war till further orders, which has occasioned various conjectures.

The Fury sloop of war, with two transports with troops for Gibraltar, sailed from Plymouth on Thursday last. Orders have been sent there to pay off no more vessels till further orders.

No accident or tumult happened in Paris on Christmas eve, though midnight mass was said, and the streets were illuminated as usual.

Extra of a letter from Portsmouth, Dec. 30.

Arrived this day the Albion, Capt. Parker, from the River, bound to the East Indies.

This afternoon arrived after a passage of three weeks, the Good Intent, Henry Rees, its entrance; and almost every soul on board perished.

His Majesty's cutter, the Alert, Capt. Dean, bound to Africa, which sailed from Kingroad, Bristol, on Tuesday the 30th November, in the evening of the Tuesday following, was unhappily wrecked on the Chapel Rocks, in Budden Bay, to the westward of Harland Point, when the Captain and every person on board perished.

The celebrated Haydn, the composer, accompanied by Mr. Salomon, arrived yesterday in town from Vienna.

Friday morning, about half past six o'clock a fire broke out in the house of a box-maker, in Lawrence lane, Cheapside, which entirely consumed the same. The warehouse adjoining to the back part of the house belonging to Messrs. Wilson and Abrahams, wholesale linen-drappers, and another house adjoining, were considerably damaged, but by the early assistance of the engines and the activity of the firemen, it was got under without further harm.

Yesterday a person was taken into custody on suspicion of being concerned in maliciously setting fire to the above house.

Last Friday night the shop of Mr. Vanbagen, pastry-cook, St. Paul's Church-yard, and the cupboard in the back room robbed of money and plate to the amount of above 150l.

The number of bankrupts for the year 1790. was six hundred and fifty-seven, being seventy-two more than in the preceding year. The list contains some of every trade, from merchants down to pig-killers and gingerbread bakers!

The effeminacy of the present age is not only instanced by the herd of men-milliners, and women-mantua-makers, it even descends among the lowest orders of society; for we find it no uncommon sight in the streets of the metropolis to see a woman big with child labouring under a pair of heavy milk-pails, and a feeble fellow walking by her side to retail it.

Mr. Maynard, of Butley Park, was robbed on Putney Heath by two highwaymen, of his purse containing eleven guineas, on Thursday afternoon, while it was light.

Wednesday evening an infirm elderly lady, who lodged at Mr. Nash's, tailor, Stanhope-street, Clare-markets fell asleep in her chair, and her clothes caught fire, by which accident she was so shockingly burnt, that she expired in a short time.

Lord Romney was at the head of a select society of gentlemen in this county, whose researches are at this time philosophically directed into the variations and quality of the different strata of soil, their directions, &c. &c. They are said to have already received much curious and important information from various parts where subterraneous works have been carried on.

On Thursday last an Act for making a new Road from St. Georges's Gate, in this city, to Gutteridge Bottom, and for repairing and widening the present road from thence to the Dover Turnpike road, in the parish of Barham, received the Royal Assent.

OBSERVATIONS on the CORN MARKET.

Although our supply of wheat to-day was not very great yet the sale was exceeding heavy, and they demanded a price near a shilling per quarter; the quality in general was good, and we had but few country buyers. The price of barley was rather small to-day, but a pretty quantity remained unsold last week, which met very heavy bids cheaper, unless fine malting samples, which were sold at 23s. and 23s. 6d. The malt trade was quiet; our principal consumers are deterred to the extent of the new duty, which takes place the 1st of January before they buy. Rye is dearer, being wanted for and pease were cheaper; and hence on the decline were rather more plentiful to-day; the sale very quiet and fell a shilling cheaper than last Monday.

MARGATE INFIRMARY.

THE establishment of an HOSPITAL, solely consecrated to the cure of those complaints that admit of no material relief, without the assistance of Sea-air and Sea-bathing, is not less wanted by the public, than wished for by the faculty. The evident utility of such an institution, excites some degree of surprise at its not having been done before; but the mind is soon relieved from that thought by the consideration that there is not, perhaps, in the whole empire another omission of the same magnitude and importance. Thousands of Asylums, constantly open in all parts of the country, for the consolation of human nature in her various afflictions, sufficiently testify the provident care of the rich, for the necessities of the poor, and leave no room to doubt, that if a SEA INFIRMARY has not yet completed the large benevolent scheme of this great nation; the reason must be that the College of Physicians, the Corporation of Surgeons, and the Company of Apothecaries, have not expressed their wishes on this subject in a manner sufficiently public. With
