LOT 2. A piece of Land containing two acres, little more or less, adjoining the high road leading from Folkstone to near its lower end, is made to fall down towards the opening in the machine, where its upper end is supported by a ledge.

When the ill-fated Louis ascended the scaffold, the only circumstance by which he seemed moved, was that of having his hands confined. As soon as he had undergone this mark of indignity, he advanced a few steps, made an expressive motion with his fingers, and exclaimed—Silence! He had uttered but few words, declarative of his innocence, when Santerre ordered the drums and trumpets to sound as loud as possible from every quarter. The King finding his best efforts to be heard were ineffectual, said—“What remains for me to do?”—Santerre pointed to the engine of death; adding at the same time—“You are not brought here to speak, but to suffer.”

The victim was immediately led to the plank, which reached nearly up to his chin, and while standing bound to it with a cord; the plank being pulled down by the Executioners, threw the King violently upon his face, and at the same time placed his neck in the opening of the engine—the cord was instantly drawn, which lifting up the catch at the top, the axe fell, and the head was severed from the body in a moment.—The remains were put into two baskets, and precipitately buried, without a coffin, in a very deep pit, with a quantity of unslacked lime, and a guard placed over them.

Eight hundred persons had engaged by compact to attend about the scaffold, and unite in calling out—Grace! But so formidable was the scene, that one of the number only had the courage to keep his word, and was instantly hewn to pieces by the guards.

As the public Executioner had refused to do his office, it was performed by the soldiers; who having bowed the monarch's neck to its resting-place on the machine, thus consummated the guilt of their Republican mission.

DR. B. CORNWELL begs leave to acquaint the Nobility, Gentry, and the Public in general, that he is removed from Conduit-street, Hanover Square, to No. 9, Princes-street, Cavendish Square, London; where they may be supplied with his invaluable and well-known ORIENTAL VEGETABLE CORDIAL, a safe, pleasant, and effectual cure in Bilious had been cut to pieces. It was suggested on the other, that General Dumourier had been surrounded and destroyed by the army of General Clairfait!

An intelligence more satisfactory and more confirmed was received by the Dutch Mails of Wednesday. It was then declared, in the strongest terms, that the division between the Patriots and the Stadtholder was at an end; and that the sense of their common danger had united the people of Amsterdam in one common bond of union.—Gazetteer.

Yesterday morning died, at his house in Chatham-Place, Brals Crosby, Esq; Alderman of Bread-street Ward.

An Ambassador is to be formally announced, in a few days, from Manfieur, as Regent, to the Court of Great Britain. The person named, is the Duc d'Harcourt. His reception in the combined view of etiquette and political relation, will furnish matter of curious observation.

Wednesday M. de Curt, Depute Des Soles Du Nord De L'Amerique, attended by M. Chev. Du Bass and Le Baron de Chafsonairs, lately arrived from the French West India Settlements, who have petitioned the Administration of this country to take their persons and property under their protection, were presented to the King, at St. James's, by Lord Grenville.

The Staff Officers on the British Establishment will, in a few days, be augmented by three Lieutenant Generals, and three Major Generals.

Wednesday the Duke of Athol made an offer to the King to raise a regiment of Highlanders to be embodied on the British Establishment.

The French Republic has been acknowledged in form, by the Grand Duke of Tuscany.

The environs of Garkum being most exposed to the French they have been sufficiently furnished with troops. The province of Dutch Guelderland will be covered by Prussians and Hanoverians, and that of Zealand by an English Squadron. Bergen-op-Zoom, Maestricht, and Bois le Duc, are the only places, that will be left to the Dutch troops; the environs of the latter place are already inundated for three miles round.

Dumourier, it is thought, will first attack Maestricht and Bergen-op-Zoom. However that may

Description of the Guillotine,
 By which the unfortunate Louis XVI, late King of France, was beheaded, Jan 21, 1793.

This instrument consists of an upright frame of timber, somewhat in the form of a painter's easel, or, rather, more nearly resembling the pile-driving engine; about twelve feet high. At two feet from the bottom is a cross-bar, with a semicircular opening to receive the neck, which on being placed therein is kept down by another piece, with a similar opening, in form of the English pillor;—This top piece is mortised through its centre, to give free passage to the axe in its fall. In the inner sides of the frame are grooves, on the top of which a sharp, triangular axe, securely fixed in the bottom part of a heavy weight of lead, is suspended by a cord passing over a pulley, and the lower end fastened to a peg about four feet from the bottom of the machine. Upon the scaffold, opposite the Guillotine, at a proper distance, is fixed an upright plank, between four and five feet long, eighteen inches broad, and an inch thick; this plank, by means of a joint

FRIDAY, Feb. 15.
HOUSE of COMMONS.
WEDNESDAY, Feb. 13.

SIR Robert Lawley asked leave to present a petition from several inhabitants of the Hundred of Hamlingford, in the county of Warwick, praying leave to bring in a bill to enable them to borrow a sum of money, for the purpose of paying off the sufferers in the riots at Birmingham, who had obtained verdicts against the hundred—the interest of the loan to be paid by the inhabitants of the hundred.

Mr. Fox did not object to the bringing up the petition; but he conceived that the statute for levying on the hundred was binding, and that the sum assessed ought to be paid, even by those who had purposely quitted the hundred to avoid paying their share of the assessment.

Mr. Pitt stated it to be a hard case that all the inhabitants should pay, because some were so poor that it was utterly impossible for them, without total ruin, to contribute their share. He wished that the assessment should be made on those who could afford it.

Mr. Fox entertained the same wish as Mr. Pitt; but he reminded him that the statute was obligatory.

Mr. Whitbread, jun. remarked on the hardships which the sufferers by the riots had endured, by being kept out of their money so long.

The petition being brought up and read, leave was given to bring in a bill.

The Committees of Ways and Means and Supply were deferred to Friday.—Adjourned.

The report, which we lately mentioned, of a defeat sustained by M. de Custine, is confirmed by accounts received on Wednesday. The action appears to have been produced by a sally of the garrison of Mentz, and in it the French lost 3000 men, with all their artillery. M. de Custine is believed to be among the killed.—St. James's Chron.

The rumours of Wednesday were such as may be expected at the present crisis. It was circulated, on the one hand, that General Custine and his army

CANTERBURY, Feb. 11, 1793.

A Gentleman of a regular education, well conversant in the theory and practice of physic, wishes to act as assistant to a Physician or Surgeon in medical practice. He has testimonies of ability, and can give very respectable references in other respects.

As he is perfectly well acquainted with Latin, French, English, and some branches of polite literature, he would have no objection to superintend the education of one or more young Gentlemen.

Address by letter to Mr. Johnson, No. 43, Dean-street, Soho, London, and immediate attention will be paid.

CITY OF ROCHESTER. } AT a Meeting of the Mayor, Aldermen and Assistants of the said City, in Common Council assembled, in the Guildhall of the said City, on MONDAY, the 11th day of February, 1793.

It was ordered, that THREE GUINEAS for every able Seaman, TWO GUINEAS for every ordinary Seaman, and ONE GUINEA for every Landman, over and above the bounty granted by his Majesty, be paid out of the Chamber to such Volunteers as shall enter, within this City, into his Majesty's Navy, for the space of one month from this day.

COACH from DEAL to CANTERBURY, EVERY DAY.

CHARLES LORD respectfully informs the Public, that a Stage Coach goes regularly from the Royal Exchange Inn at Deal, at four o'clock every afternoon, to the Rose Inn, Canterbury, and arrives in time for the London Coaches; which go to the Golden Cross, Charing-cross, and the Spread Eagle, Gracechurch-street. — The Deal Stage goes through Sandwich, Ash, and Wingham, and returns from Canterbury every morning at ten o'clock.

Passengers and parcels carefully booked at the above Inns; at the Rose, Sandwich; at the Ship, Ash, and Red Lion, Wingham.

PARTNERSHIP.

ANY person desirous of engaging in the public line of business, who can command a sum of Two Thousand Pounds or upwards, may have an opportunity of employing it very advantageously in a capital Tavern and Inn in full business, situate in a large town on one of the first roads in the kingdom. The premises have lately been rebuilt from a design and under the inspection of an eminent architect; are very capacious, happily

MUSICAL INTELLIGENCE.

On Wednesday last a grand selection of sacred musick, and on Friday the Oratorios of the Messiah, were performed in Kingston church, Surrey, under the patronage of His Royal Highness the Duke of Clarence. The performers, under the direction of Dr. Arnold, in both pieces gave great satisfaction to those who attended; but the company, considering the present rage for musick, and the gentility and populousness of the neighbourhood, was not so numerous as might have been expected. Little Pickle was in one of the pews to hear the Messiah; and during the whole performance looked as demure as a girkin in a vinegar bottle.

This exhibition is said to have originated in a speculation of Dr. Arnold's; and the old women look on the thunder and lightning that happened during the performance on Wednesday last, as a judgement, for turning the house of God into what they call a play house. Some of the gentlemen of the band made, we hear, reflections of a very different nature, not much to the honour of the musick of the spheres. It may be asked why did the Church-wardens lend the church for this purpose? Because, as it is supposed, Dr. Arnold is under an engagement to appropriate a part of the profits towards defraying the expence of a new organ just erected in the church; and if, in this way, they can harmonize the souls of the parishioners, who can be so charitable as to object to the project?

A CARD.

To the Officers in His Majesty's Navy, and to the Encampments in England and on the Continent.

It is more in compliance with the wishes of many RESPECTABLE OFFICERS in HIS MAJESTY'S COMMISSION, who have long known and approved their UNIQUE excellence, than from an anxious desire to extend their sale at this day, that HIBBS takes leave to recommend the use of his RUM and BRANDY ORANGE SHRUBS to the NAVY and ARMY in general, as Liquours peculiarly adapted for their Stores. These SHRUBS are prepared solely with the finest Fruit, the choicest Spirits, and refined Sugar---require only the addition of Water for immediate drinking as SHERBET or PUNCH---present a most ADMIRABLE ANTISCORBUTIC, and will keep in all Climates.---Sold, in any quantity not less than Two Gallons of either sort, at No. 2, Monument-Yard, London.

Genuine FOREIGN WINES, as usual, in legal Quart Bottles, twelve of which are warranted to contain Three Gallons.

MARRIAGES.

Tuesday, at St. George the Martyr, Queen-square, George Hammond, Esq; late from Jamaica, to Miss Berthon, of East-street. Thursday, at St. George's, Hanover-square, the Rev. John Arnold Broomfield, Fellow of New College, and son of the late Robert Broomfield, Esq. M. D. to Miss Anne Gott, daughter of Sir H. T. Gott, of Newland, Bucks. Monday, at Bath, the Rev. John Phillips, of Eaton, Herefordshire to Miss Ann P'ye, of Wadley, Berkshire. Tuesday, the Rev. T. D. Trollope, Fellow of Wadham College, Oxford, to Miss Trollope, of Huntingdon. Same day, at St. George's, Hanover-square, the Rev. Mr. Hodges, of Ludlow, Shropshire, to Miss M'Intosh, daughter of Duncan Martia M'Intosh, Esq; of Arlington-street.

DEATHS.

Monday, at Staindrop, in the county of Durham, aged 67, John Lee, Esq; Member of Parliament for Wellingborough, and formerly Attorney General. A few days since, at his house in Fenchurch-street, Mr. William Robinson, many years an eminent Chymist and Druggist. In June last, at St. Christopher's, General Woodley, Governor of the Leeward Islands. Friday, at Taplow, Joseph King, Esq; son-in-law to Daniel Giles, Esq; Deputy Governor of the Bank. Wednesday, Henry Jordis, Esq; of Bread-street, Cheapside.

VERSES.

WRITTEN AT THE SHIP INN, DOVER, (TEN AT NIGHT) BY AN OFFICER OF THE RUSSIAN RUSSARS.

FAREWEL, the dearest treasure of my heart,
Your Henry goes to a far distant shore;
Farewel, my Harriet, for I must depart,
Perhaps to see thy beauteous form no more.
The sails are spread! the Captain calls away,
I must embark for Russia's frozen clime,
To see my lovely girl I cannot stay,
Nor to express my wishes have I time.
To take, my Harriet, take a long adieu,
May every bliss and joy upon you wait,
My constant heart shall ever stay with you,
However Heaven's bliss'd to doom my fate.

N. R. TOKE, Esq. and PERCIVAL DYKE, Esq. Stewards.

The Gentlemen having taken up the races in a very spirited manner, and from the extraordinary number of horses entered for the above Sweepstakes, great sport is expected.

For the accommodation of the company, a very considerable addition is made to the Stand, and great improvements have been made on the Race ground. By particular desire, the Stewards Stand is altered so as to hold only the two Stewards, and Judge of the race.

The Assembly Rooms have been elegantly fitted up and greatly improved.

Public Breakfasts and Assemblies as usual.

A great main of Cocks will be fought every day during the Race Week.

PUBLIC ORDINARIES.

By his Majesty's Letters Patent, is recommended JACKSON'S Infallible Ointment for the ITCH.
