III. c. 57, which gives to each of the Universities and Public Schools the right of demanding a copy of every work published by those institutions are entitled to copies of parts of the whole work is completed. The question has been decided in an action brought by the trustees of the late Mr. Justice against Messrs. Payne and Foss, the book-sellers, who published some numbers of the late Mr. Thorsp's celebrated work on Botany, the publication of which was commenced before the act in question, and the work was completed after the act. The trustees of the late Mr. Justice, as executors of the late doctor not being possessed of adequate funds for the purpose. Mr. Justice has already expressed an opinion, at Nisi Prius, in favour of the Copyright Act against the claim of the British Museum; but the question is shortly to be considered by the Court of King's Bench.

She was dining with her husband and eight children, and in consequence of her eating voraciously, and not masticating her food before she attempted to swallow it, a piece of fish got stuck in her throat; a surgeon was called in, and he tried to extract it, but her efforts to breathe during the operation ruptured a blood vessel, which caused her death soon afterwards. A Jury subsequently returned a verdict of "Accidental Death."

...the Ambassadors, or have persevered in refusing the interference of the Allied Powers. By accounts through the Ionian Islands, it appears that it was generally expected on board the English fleet, that the Porte would submit without delay, as soon as it was found that the British and French fleets were determined to proceed hostilely in order to enforce the armistice. This concurs with the news of which we were in possession on Saturday.

"We think it may be concluded with tolerable certainty, that up to the commencement of the present month, nothing had occurred in the Turkish capital, materially to alter the state of affairs between the Divan and the British, French, and Russian Ambassadors. Had the intercourse been resumed as has been asserted, on more than one occasion, the probability is, that information to that effect would have been dispatched instantly, and it might have been received in this country in the course of a fortnight or three weeks at the latest; recollecting that it would be sent over land, and that there is therefore nothing to delay the progress of the messenger.

"Accounts to-day from Vienna, to the 13th instant, state, that dispatches on the preceding day, had been sent off to the Austrian Envoy at Constantinople, but that no news had been recently received by him. The private advices from the Hungarian frontiers, certainly represented that the Sultan had unexpectedly shewn a disposition to concede, but as this intelligence has not yet been directly confirmed, we are warranted we think, in disbelieving it; at the same time, some doubt was felt in the Austrian capital, that circumstanced as the Sublime Porte is, the Ministry in the end, will have no choice. It is stated that the Austrian Envoy had been instructed to second the efforts of the three Allied Powers, who signed the treaty of the 6th July.

"Boston papers were received to-day at the North and South American Coffee House, of two days later date than those before obtained, but on looking over them, we do not find a single paragraph worth extracting, their contents being merely matters of inferior local interest.

"THE MONEY MARKET.—Consols for Account opened this morning at 87  $\frac{1}{2}$ , and rose very soon afterwards to 87  $\frac{3}{4}$  buyers, and in consequence of the briskness of the market, it was expected that there would have been a greater elevation than subsequently occurred, the highest price of the day being 87  $\frac{3}{4}$ . About noon matters were rather a gloomy appearance, and from that hour until shortly before the close of business, a complete stagnation took place, and many of the principal jobbers quitted the house in despair of doing any advantageous bargains. The subsequent elevation was attributed principally to the purchases of Consols for to-morrow, and the nearest quotation both for money and account, at four o'clock, was 87  $\frac{3}{4}$ , the difference between the two being only that they were buyers for Consols for November at that price.

"The purchases of the new 4 per cents. have not been so numerous to-day as those of the 3  $\frac{1}{2}$  per cents. The latter of which securities being bought principally on behalf of the public, the former rose from 102  $\frac{1}{4}$  to 102  $\frac{3}{4}$ , but the advance in the latter amounted to  $\frac{1}{4}$  per cent.—viz. from 93  $\frac{1}{4}$  to 93  $\frac{3}{4}$ .

"Exchequer Bills to-day partly recovered from the depression of Saturday, and obtained 62s. premium; which Indian Bonds on the other hand, were if any thing rather lower, the premium being 97s. Bank Stock was much in demand, and an improvement from 214  $\frac{1}{2}$  to 215  $\frac{1}{4}$  occurred.

"Business in the Foreign Market was very much confined to Mexican Bonds, which, on the whole, were about 1  $\frac{1}{2}$  per cent. under the highest price obtained on Saturday. It was thought that some satisfactory news respecting the dividends would have been received through the United States; but as this did not arrive, of course the impression was unfavourable. The Market opened heavy at 55  $\frac{1}{2}$ , and soon afterwards 55 was the current price. Shortly before four o'clock a few purchases produced an improvement to 55  $\frac{1}{4}$ .

"The last prices were—Red Ann. 86  $\frac{3}{4}$ —Consols 87  $\frac{3}{4}$ —Ditto for Account 87  $\frac{3}{4}$ —4 per Cents. 102  $\frac{3}{4}$ —3  $\frac{1}{2}$  per Cents. 93  $\frac{3}{4}$ —Ex. Bills 62s.—India Bonds 97s. prem.

"Russian 93  $\frac{1}{4}$ —Danish 61  $\frac{1}{2}$ —Greek 16—Spanish 10  $\frac{1}{4}$ —Portuguese 76  $\frac{1}{4}$ —Mexican 55  $\frac{1}{4}$ —Colombian 27  $\frac{1}{4}$ —Brazil 59  $\frac{1}{4}$ ."

We have the pleasure to state, that Giles Hilton, esq. of Preston, next Faversham, has given a second benefaction of twenty-one pounds to the Kent and Canterbury Hospital.

By the death of the late Earl Guilford, his nephew, the Rev. F. #### DOVER, Oct. 22.

On Wednesday last, James Greenwood, belonging to the Poll-fishing smack, whilst heaving the lead, unfortunately fell overboard; a boat was instantly launched to his assistance, but the night was so dark he could not be found. On Saturday morning the body was picked up, much disfigured, by the Industry smack; and an inquest being held before John Shipden, esq. Mayor and Coroner, a verdict of Accidental Death was recorded.

Out of the Frying Pan into the Fire.—A few nights ago a fair trader had commenced unloading her cargo, consisting of light goods, in the Pent, but in the midst of the operations was discovered by the Philistines, and obliged to beat a hasty retreat across the Rope Walk to the sea, and put off: the crew being fatigued with their exertions, and in want of water, made the best of their way to what they supposed a gentleman's yacht, lying in the Roads, when it turned out to be the Vigilant Custom House cutter, who made prize of the smugglers, and marched them off in triumph to Chatham.

THE LATE EARL OF GUILFORD.

Aylesbury, Oct. 20.—The remains of the Earl of Guilford were brought to Aylesbury on Thursday, being on the road to Wroton Abbey, where they are to be interred.—The coffin was taken from the hearse, and laid in state during the night at a room in the George Inn, lighted with large wax candles; it was covered with crimson velvet, fastened with gilt nails, and a silver plate on it bore the inscription—

"The Right Honourable Frederick Lord Guilford, died October 14th, 1827, in the 62d year of his age."

The remains of his Lordship were placed in the hearse the next morning, and at half-past seven were conveyed towards their resting place in the following order of procession:—

Four men on horseback, two and two.
The Hearse, drawn by six black horses, having the arms of the deceased, handsomely emblazoned, on the panels.
Two mourning coaches and six.
Two horsemen.

HEIGHT OF NIAGARA FALLS.—A gentleman in Albany has politely furnished us with the perpendicular height of the Falls, taken by actual measurement, from the bridge recently erected from the west end of Goat Island, extending to the Tarrapin rocks, 800 feet from the shore.—
The mode adopted in ascertaining the depth, from the brink of the Fall to the surface of the water below, leaves no room to question its correctness. A piece of scantling was used, projecting from the railing of the bridge over the edge of the precipice, from which was suspended a cord, with a weight attached, reaching fairly to the water in a perpendicular line. The length of the cord to the surface of the water, at the brink, was thirteen feet one inch; from this to the water below, on accurate measurement, the distance was found to be 158 feet 4 inches.—
These facts are duly certified by several gentlemen, residents and foreigners, and by Mr. Hooker, the Superin-tendant on Goat Island. We are told this is the first successful attempt that was ever made to ascertain the perpendicular descent by actual measurement. Heretofore it has been done by observation.

CANTERBURY, October 23.

London, Monday Night.
It is stated in the papers of this evening that no express has arrived from Paris: the fact is otherwise, although it did not reach London until a later hour than usual.
The most important intelligence brought by it relates to Spain. It is said that King Ferdinand having received the submission of nearly all the rebels, and the homage of every loyal class in Catalonia, is about to return without delay to his capital, where it is said his presence is wanted in order to put an end to an opinion, which it seems has got abroad in several quarters, that he left Madrid because he found it unsafe to remain there longer. The date when his Majesty will quit Tarragona is not hinted at, and the assertion itself, that he is about to return to his capital requires confirmation. It is seldom safe to rely upon intelligence received from Paris on the present state of affairs until corroborated by other communications.

The French papers of Saturday contain comparatively little news either from Spain, or from any other quarter, and with reference to the rebellion in Catalonia, they contain no facts either relating to the march of the Royalists or the movements of the insurgents, which are of sufficient consequence to afford proof either that the rebellion is at an end, or that the King's troops would have some difficulty in overcoming the enemy. One or two of the Paris Journals still persist that the insurgents were concentrating their forces, and that the submissions to the King in consequence of the amnesty, had been far less numerous than they are represented. Such seems to be the opinion of the Editor of the Quotidienne in particular. The grenadiers of several regiments were advancing upon Manresa, but it does not appear that that place had offered to capitulate, much less that it was in possession of the King's party, as was reported at the end of last week. Notwithstanding the assertion that the King of Spain would ere long re-visit Madrid, it is still said that the Queen will proceed to Valencia. The story of the visit of Don Carlos to Paris is now entirely abandoned, but we are told, in order to account for the contradiction, that his Royal Highness had been prevented from undertaking the journey by the dangerous illness of his son.

From Constantinople and from Greece, the dates are not more recent than the previous accounts, none of them coming down to the 30th ult. by which day it was supposed the Porte would have resumed negotiations with the Ambassadors, or have persevered in refusing the interference of the Allied Powers. By accounts through the Ionian Islands, it appears that it was generally expected on board the English fleet, that the Porte would submit without delay, as soon as it was found that the British and French fleets were determined to proceed hostily in order to enforce the armistice. This concurs with the news of which we were in possession on Saturday.
We think it may be concluded with tolerable certainty, that up to the commencement of the present month, nothing had occurred in the Turkish capital, matterially to alter the state of affairs between the Divan and the British, French, and Russian Ambassadors. Had the intercourse been resumed as has been asserted, on more than one occasion, the probability is, that information to that effect would have been dispatched instantly and it might have been received in this country in the course of a fortnight or three weeks at the latest; recollecting that it would be sent over land, and that there is therefore nothing to delay the progress of the messenger.
Accounts to-day from Vienna, to the 13th instant, state that dispatches on the preceding day had been sent Bridge. It appears that the man having occasion to go into the above place in the course of the morning, observed something laying on the floor wrapped up in a piece of blanket, and on opening it was much astonished at finding that it contained a very fine child, apparently not more than a few hours old. Nash immediately took the poor infant into his dwelling, where it still continues in a very healthy state; but it is to be hoped that its unnatural parent will soon be discovered and receive such a punishment as is commensurate with her cruel conduct towards her own offspring.

On Saturday morning, as Hook's Deal coach was coming down St. Martin's Hill, near this city, the reins unfortunately broke, on which the coachman jumped off the box and ran to the horses' heads, when they turning on one side, drew the coach upon the stone steps of the houses adjoining the road, and it fell over. Besides the coachman, there were three passengers on the roof, two of whom were very severely bruised, one of them, a man of the name of Stupples, so much so, that he was taken to the Kent and Canterbury Hospital, where he now lies in a very precarious state; the other, we are happy to say, is doing well. No blame whatever we understand is attributed to the coachman.

The utmost exertions have been used to recover the sailing barge sunk off Grays, near Gravesend, on which occasion the lives of four individuals were lost. The persons interested in the cargo, and the owners of the craft itself, have done every thing to ascertain the immediate spot where the wreck may have sunk; but, owing to the apprehension and anxiety which naturally existed in the minds of the survivors, they are unable accurately to describe the precise part of the river where the lamentable accident occurred. Several barges have been engaged to assist the discovery, and the apparatus of the Humane Society has been called into execution, but without effect. It is intended to continue their exertion for a short time longer, previous to the holding a Coroner's Inquest on the body of the man which has been already washed on shore, but, in the event of non-success, the Inquest must be held, as the corpse of the deceased is already in a wretched state of decomposition.

MARCH OF INTELLECT.—The porters of the coach-offices in this town drink soda-water, instead of strong beer; and the other night we saw a footman on the Marine Parade smoking a cigar.—Brighton Paper.

CAUTION TO PERSONS KEEPING DOGS BY THE ROAD
SIDE.—On Wednesday last, as Mr. John Parton, of New Romney, was returning from Rye market, in his chaise cart, with a spirited and valuable mare, just as he had passed the last gate on the entrance of Hook Wall, at a moderate pace, two dogs kept by a Looker, adjoining the road, rushed out at the horse, which so terrified the animal, that it set off at full speed, overturned the gig, and threw Mr. P. with violence on his head. The mare, by plunging, broke both shafts, and ran into a ditch, where she was found with her nose sticking in the mud, and most miraculously escaped with life, although seriously injured.
Mr. P. we are happy to say, also fortunately escaped with a few slight bruises.—It is hoped this will prove a caution to persons keeping dogs by the road side, and cause them to be shut up; this not being the first accident that has occurred within a short distance of the same place, by dogs flying out at horses in the public road after dark.

RAMSGATE, Oct. 20.
This place is full of carriage company: it has not had a richer influx for a long series of years, and certainly the public spirit shown lately among the projectors of new buildings, deserve encouragement. The promenade on the pier this morning was a magnificent sight.
The fashion is, to inhale the sea breezes and bathe early; breakfast from nine to ten, and out at noon. Some sit for hours at the pier head, contemplating the grandeur of the waters beneath them, or make "The Tour" to Minster Mills, (where the hounds and harriers turn out), ride over the champaign country, and take a peep at the Golden Farmer, at St. Nicholas, then return by Dandelion, Margate, and tered the expressions as sarcasms on the Christian religion, and for the approbation of his hearers, or whether they were uttered as propositions to which he meant to object and express his dissent in the way of free discussion. If they should be of opinion his object was to discuss the points fairly, they could not find him guilty; but if they were intended to induce those who were present to think the subject was as he represented, and to hold the established religion profanely up to scorn and odium, the Jury ought to find him guilty. "I should not discharge the duty of my office," said the Lord Chief Justice, "if I forbore to say to you that the Christian religion being established by the law of the land, is entitled to the protection of the law in the same manner that every part of the constitution is. Our religion, handed to us from our forefathers, is our best birthright. The evidence, as far as regards the words, you have heard, and, Gentlemen, you must judge whether the defendant's speeches were intended or not to hold the Christian religion up to contempt."

The Lord Chief Justice here read the evidence, and concluded by saying—

"Gentlemen, I leave the case in your hands. You are to discharge your duty according to your best judgment, and give a verdict from your own conscience, unawed by any thing you have heard, either from the Defendant or others."

The Jury, at half-past three o'clock, retired from their box; and on their return into Court at four o'clock, found the Defendant—GUILTY.

CANTERBURY, October 26.

London, Thursday Night.

Much importance has been attached this afternoon to the receipt of the advices from Constantinople to the 23d ult. It is true that they confirm a portion of the news before transmitted through France, as to communication being kept up between the Divan and Ambassadors; not, however, that any regular negociations for the adjustment of differences were recommenced, as is asserted by one or two of the papers published this evening. The present advices deserve much less attention, inasmuch as the previous arrivals brought dates from the Turkish capital five days later than those now obtained. Government we know are not in possession of any additional facts, beyond what are publicly known, although the mercantile house forwarded the contents of the letters received late this afternoon to the Foreign Office immediately after it obtained them.

It is reported at the west end of the town, that a Cabinet Council will be held in the course of a day or two, and that the summonses are to be issued to-morrow. The result of the proceedings at Constantinople is held to be as doubtful as ever by all persons connected with Government, especially, since the most recent accounts from Vienna declare positively, that the Austrian Government is decidedly unfriendly to the interference of the other Allied Powers in the affairs of Greece.

THE MONEY MARKET.—Nothing of prominent interest occurred at the Stock Market to-day, the quotations remaining nearly the same as yesterday afternoon. Soon after the commencement of business a disposition was shewn among the jobbers to sell, and Consols fell from 88  $\frac{1}{2}$  to 88, and had the sales been followed up by others on the part of the regular Brokers, the market would have been more seriously affected. The Commissioners at the moment of the depression were eagerly served with 3 per Cent. Consols at 88, but as it has often happened of late, they bought at nearly the lowest price of the day.

There appearing no prospect of any fresh supply of Stock, either for money or time, the dealers apprehensive of a further improvement, changed their operations and continued to purchase until Consols for Account closed at 88  $\frac{1}{2}$  higher.

The last prices were—Red. Ann. 87  $\frac{1}{2}$ —Consols 88  $\frac{1}{2}$ —Ditto for Acc. 88  $\frac{1}{2}$ —3  $\frac{1}{2}$  per Cents. 95  $\frac{1}{2}$ —Ditto Reduced 93  $\frac{1}{2}$ —4 per Cents. 102  $\frac{1}{2}$ —Exchequer Bills 61s. prem.—India Bonds 98s. prem.—Bank Stock 216.

Russian 93  $\frac{1}{2}$ —Danish 62—Greek 15  $\frac{1}{2}$ —Spanish 10—Mexican 54  $\frac{1}{2}$ —Colombian 27—Brazil 59  $\frac{1}{2}$ —Buenos Ayres 49—Peruvian 24."

There is not a single feature of novelty in the Foreign Intelligence of the past week, and as far as all positive information goes, no change has taken place in the relative situation of any of the powers. The affairs of Turkey and Greece of course have attracted most attention, and the reports of the proceedings at Constantinople have been various and contradictory: early in the week it was asserted that the Grand Signior persevered obstinately in his refusal to allow the mediation of the Allies, but within the last two or three days the opinion has been gaining ground that he has shewn symptoms of compliance. That he will do so ultimately we have very little doubt, for as we have already shewn, he is in a situation in which it is almost impossible for him to make any effectual resistance: a combined fleet of more than thirty sail of the line cruizes round his Mediterranean coast—a numerous Russian squadron occupies the Black Sea—to the North the Emperor Nicholas has an overwhelming force ready if anxious to proclaim the whole extent of his infamy, he presented himself to the view of an indignant Court arrayed in the emblem of that sacred profession, the divine objects of which he has basely endeavoured to frustrate, and whose character he has done every thing in his power to dishonour and disgrace. We hope his career is now at an end; and that, as the Attorney-General forcibly observed, Society is at length likely "to get rid of an individual, who was surrounding himself with nests of vermin, for the purpose of sapping and destroying the very foundation of our best hopes and happiness."

Last week, four Officers and 167 men, who had been doing duty at Chatham, rejoined their depots in Canterbury.

The depot companies of the 63d regiment, under the command of Major Fairclough, have marched through this City from Chatham for Dover.

The 61st Regiment arrived at Chatham on Monday, from Dublin; they are commanded by Colonel Barlow. They are a very fine body of young men, and will embark for India in January next.

Lady Noel Byron and family arrived at Bifrons House on Monday, from Dover.

The Maidstone Commodore Skipsy, it is said will convey General Sir Herbert Taylor to his new government, the Cape of Good Hope.

The Royal George, of 120 guns, is to be docked and coppered; and sent to Sheerness to lay in ordinary.

The sale of Mr. Canning's residence, on the Marine Parade, Brighton, took place on Monday, and produced 4,000 guineas.

Sutton, the Kentish pedestrian, is to commence at Brighton, next week, a feat which surpasses the celebrated Barclay match—namely, to walk 1,200 miles in 1,200 hours. Captain Barclay completed 1,000.

Among the benefactions to the Kent and Canterbury Hospital, was the sum of two guineas on Friday by Capt. Woolerton, being a fine for an assault committed upon him by William Browning and Frederick Jutsen, of Whitstable. It is to be hoped, that one or two recent punishments of this description will put an end to such outrageous conduct.

We are informed, that the Kent and Canterbury Hospital has received a legacy of £100 (the duty of ten per cent. deducted,) bequeathed by the late Mr. Thomas Harrison, of Lenham, in this County.

The organ in the Cathedral of this city, is entirely removed from the summit of the screen, where it had stood many years, and is erecting on the right of the entrance to the choir. It will be opened again for public worship as soon as it can be put up; but we believe will not be as heretofore a prominent feature in the choir.

We understand that an investigation has taken place with regard to the child which was found at Bridge a few days since, and a girl against whom there was strong grounds of suspicion, was apprehended and examined, but she stoutly denied all knowledge of it, till examined by a medical gentleman, when she confessed to him that she was the mother of the child, but stated she did not know the name of the father. We hear that all proceedings against her are stayed for the present.

A horse ran away with a cart, on Saturday morning in Canterbury, and the wheels passed over a poor man, and did him considerable hurt; fortunately, no bones were broken.

A few days since, a son of Pleasant Bristow, of Cliff's End, met with a serious accident, from imprudently ascending a walnut-tree, in falling from which he broke his collar-bone, and was otherwise so dreadfully bruised that faint hopes are entertained of his recovery.

There are at present residing at Folkstone, under the same roof, a family, consisting of three persons only, of the name of Spicer, whose united ages amount to 259 years, viz. the husband, 95—wife, 98—daughter, 66.

LONGEVITY OF A HORSE.—Mr. Pye, of Bredgar, in this county, has a pony about 13 hands high, upwards of 39 years of age. It has been in his family this 37 years past, and is now perfectly hearty.

CANTERBURY MECHANIC'S INSTITUTION.—On Tuesday evening was delivered in the Lecture Room of this Institution, by Mr. Jacobs, a Lecture on the interesting and amusing science of Electricity; being the first of a course of Lectures for the Winter season; when many very pleasing experiments were successfully made in presence of a very numerous and respectable audience, who were highly gratified with the same. The Lectures will be continued weekly, as usual, on different branches of science.

INQUESTS.—An inquest was on Monday held by Mr. De Lasalle upon the body of Wm. Dunk, a poor mendicant aged 24 years, who has for some time past subsisted in that neighbourhood upon charity. On the morning of Monday he was discovered dead in an outhouse at Nash Court, where he had taken refuge. The Jury returned a verdict of—Died by the Visitation of God. [It is worthy remark the poor fellow had been sleeping in an

CONSECRATION OF ST. GEORGES' CHURCH, RAMSGATE.

Ramsgate, Oct. 24.—The Archbishop of Canterbury has resided during the last few weeks with his Pierremont House, Broadstairs, having been pleased that the New Church of St. George, Ramsgate, be consecrated previous to his departure, fixed the ceremony. Tickets of admission on the occasion issued a few days since to the subscribers, and to be for distribution amongst the public. Barriers were each side of the avenue to the church, and a very body of constables were sworn in to preserve order, the civil power from the Royal Harbour. Shortly several took possession of their seats, and a stream continued to pour in until nearly eleven o'clock. At eleven o'clock, the Lord Primate arrived from B accompanied by his son-in-law, the Bishop of Carlisle, his Chaplain, the Rev. N. Simons, and was met by of St. Lawrence, the Churchwardens, and Trustee white wands in their hands, preceded him into the church, and a numerous body of clergy from the neighbouring parishes brought up the rear. The slow movement Oratorio to Artaxerxes was played by the orchestra. Grace proceeded up the middle aisle to the altar, Rev. R. Harvey presented the petition which he rec ordered his Registrar to read, which done, he declared he was ready to consecrate the church, accordingly service then took place, and the sentence of consecration being read, his Grace signed it, and commanded registered in his registry. Morning prayers and the occasion followed, when one of Kent's anthems, "Blessed be thou," &c. was sung in excellent manner by a numerous band of amateurs, assisted by several choristers from Canterbury Cathedral. After the Communion Service, in which the Primate was assisted by the Carlisle, the old 100th Psalm was sung; an excellent private sermon was preached by the Rev. R. Harvey after which Handell's Hallelujah Chorus was given by the orchestra with most happy effect, at the conclusion of the Archbishop read the prayer for the Church when the Venerable Prelate came to the part praying who are in sickness, his voice faltered, and for moments he was almost inaudible, when he gradually recovered, and gave the blessing. [We regret to say that Manners Sutton whose health for some time past has been a very precarious state was taken much worse on last, and continues very ill.]

The Sacrament was administered to the Clergy and the laity who chose to communicate; afterwards the Archbishop, Clergy, Trustees, and Inhabitants, proceeded to the consecration of the Church-yard, when the ceremonies concluded. Many hundreds of visitors from the neighbourhood were present, and strings of carriages lined the

We should be wanting, in justice to Messrs. Friday, Page, Bourn, and Mr. Hinds, the Churchwardens (the conductors of the arrangements for the day) to omit mentioning the very excellent plans prepared and put into execution, for the preservation of order and decorum within the church, and in the approaches to it, not allowed to pass the barriers without exhibiting the so great was the anxiety to be present at the ceremony that the number of tickets had been issued (had it not been for the building to have contained them) they have been in requisition.

To his Grace the Archbishop of Canterbury, the Town of Ramsgate are due, from the moment of application to him on the subject of erecting the Church

Having anticipated in our paper of last week the adherence of the Duke of Wellington to the present Administration, it gave us on all accounts the most lively satisfaction to be able in our very next publication to announce, that at the special request of his Majesty, his Grace had again taken upon himself the high office of Commander-in-Chief. We still hope, and with more confidence than ever, that Mr. Peel may also be induced to return to the distinguished station he filled so ably during the earlier part of the last Session: if this event should occur before the next meeting of Parliament, it may then be said, as far as the servants of the Crown are concerned, that the Nation will have nothing left to wish. A Ministry will then be formed to satisfy the desires of all parties in the Kingdom, and without the inconveniences and sacrifices usually attending a coalition, there will be such a friendly union of Whig and Tory, as will secure the adoption of the most beneficial measures recommended by both. The Cabinet will be framed upon principles of well regulated liberality; and while on the one hand, the splendour of the Throne and the character of the Nation are duly supported, the people may repose in the full assurance not only that no new burdens will be imposed, but that relief from existing taxes will be extended as far as possible.

It may be asked then, of whom will the opposition consist? And there are many who hold with Mr. Burke, that "a steady watchful opposition, is almost as necessary as an efficient and enlightened administration." For our own parts, we feel no alarm upon this score; we have never seen, and hardly ever read, of the time when this country was without an opposition in both Houses of Parliament. Among 650 Members, there will always be found some prepared to resist the measures of Government, whatever they may be; and while Mr. Hume retains his seat, such a party will never want a willing leader, even though his adequacy for such a post, is evidenced almost solely by his own eagerness to seize it. The hostility displayed by a few distinguished individuals (distinguished certainly in all respects from Mr. Hume) in the latter weeks of the last Session, arose out of wholesome doubts they entertained, on two of the greatest questions that can divide opinions in this country—the Corn Laws, and the Catholic Claims. We apprehend that the return of the Duke of Wellington to office, (independent of the prospect of the return of Mr. Peel,) will remove most of these doubts, and alike enable the advocates of the lauded and Protestant interests to act in hearty accordance with the administration, as it is now happily constituted.

Mr. Huskisson has not yet returned from the Continent where he is sojourning for the benefit of his health, so that it cannot be decided whether he will or will not occupy the post of Secretary for the Colonies, and undertake the leadership of the Ministry in the House of Commons. We adverted a short time since to the arduousness of this situation, under the supposition that Mr. Huskisson would not be sufficiently convalescent to undertake it; but since it is probable that the leadership of the opposition will only be in the hands of Mr. Hume, the duties of the Right Hon. Gentleman in his capacity would not be rendered either very harassing or very burthensome. It is not yet finally settled whether Mr. Herries will continue permanently to discharge the functions of Chancellor of the Exchequer; but these are only two points not yet permanently arranged.

Some alarm seems to have been felt in the City lest the late pecuniary panic, if we may so call it, should be in a degree renewed, and lest the state of the foreign exchanges should render the exportation of the precious metals a profitable speculation. If the exchanges continued to rise against this country, there might be some reason for the latter apprehension; but it is in fact unconnected with the former, which originates in a mistaken notion regarding the rapid increase of paper circulation. The public funds during the past week have been subject to a degree of fluctuation, but they have shewn a disposition rather to advance than to retrograde, even in opposition to statements calculated to produce an unfavourable impression. The principal of these has been a report that it was intended to send a large additional force to Portugal: it turns out, however, that no fresh troops at all are to be dispatched, and that the two ships of war, avowedly fitting out for the Tagus, are only to replace an equal number about to return to this country.

His Majesty's ship Herald, with Mr. Lushington, for Madras, arrived at Madeira, on the 20th ult. and on the following day proceeded on her voyage.

Our Theatre on Tuesday evening was crowded to excess, to witness Mr. Pemberton's Sir Edward Mortimer, with the additional attraction of Miss Lawrence's benefit. There is a masterly energy, and a decisive originality in Mr. P's acting which realised the expectations of those who have seen and heard his astonishing power and genius as a Poet and Orator, in the Lecture Room of the Philosophical Institution; yet his delineation of Mortimer could not but excite regret that his known taste and discernment had not selected one of Shakepeare's characters:—admirable as his Mortimer was, we could not help wishing for his Shylock, or Macbeth, or Hamlet, in which the grasp of of every thing which had hitherto made him comfortable and happy.

A poor girl of the name of Collins, at Hythe, was so dreadfully burnt by her clothes catching fire in taking off the family dinner on Sunday, that she lingered in great agony until Monday, and expired.

The company this day was both numerous and respectable, although, owing to the Assizes, several of the neighbouring Gentlemen were absent, there were however some splendid equipages, amongst which were noticed the Earl of Darnley's, the Earl of Winchelsea's, Sir John Honeywood's, Sir John Fagg's, and several others.

The Dress Ball, at Bellingham's, was numerous and fashionably attended by most of the Nobility and Gentry; the numbers being nearly 200, exceeding greatly any Assembly on the first night for years past, and comprised the rank, beauty, and fashion of the County. The Rooms, which have been newly decorated, presented an elegant appearance—Weippert's excellent Quadrille Band, engaged by the Stewards, was in attendance, and gave great satisfaction.

The Downs to day were more numerous attended than yesterday, and the sport was very good, each heat being well contested. The weather too was excellent. The Assembly this evening was not very well attended, but the Grand Dress Ball to-morrow night is expected, we hear, to be the largest we have for some years had to record.

poison. The circumstances attending the death of these fe- males are given in a preceding page, which were fully borne out by the evidence of the witnesses. The brother of the deceased was examined on this melancholy occasion, whose evi- dence was to the following effect:—

Richard Hamilton Anderson, a brother of the deceased persons, stated, that he visited them on the Friday evening previous to their death. The elder sister said she had made an application to a gentleman respecting a bill of exchange for £50, that would become due on the following day, and which was accepted by her; and that the gentleman had refused to allow her to renew the bill. She stated that she could not take it up, appeared very uneasy respecting it, and asked witness what she had better do. Witness advised her to wait till it became due, and then apply to the gentleman for time to pay it; she said that would not do, as the gen- tleman had paid it away, and she did not know whose hands it was in. The gentleman alluded to is a surgeon, and the elder deceased had, about two years since, apprenticed her nephew to him, with a premium of £200. Part of the money was paid down at the time, and a bill for the remain- der (£50.) payable two years after date, was given by the deceased. When that bill became due, it was renewed, and the renewed bill also became due on the 8th inst. The de- ceased persons had another brother residing in India, who remitted them from two hundred to three hundred pounds a year, and they expected a remittance from him in time to enable them to take up the bill. The elder deceased expres- sed a great dread of being arrested, and taken to prison. She promised to let witness know on the following Monday what had been done respecting the bill, but he heard nothing from her. The deceased persons were as much attached to each other as it was possible for two sisters to be. They both seemed to dread the idea of being separated. The Gentle- man sent the elder deceased a letter on Saturday, perempto- rily demanding payment of the bill; both the deceased per- sons were greatly agitated in consequence, and to a degree which, he had no doubt, caused a temporary insanity. This witness was very much affected while giving his evidence, and repeatedly shed tears.

The Jury said they were satisfied that the fear of being thrown into prison had affected their minds, and caused them to commit suicide. A verdict of Insanity was therefore re- turned.

CANTERBURY, December 18.

London, Monday Night.

"We have very good authority for stating, distinctly, that if Lord Goderich has not already tendered his re- signation, he has signified his intention to retire from office, as soon as his Majesty is in a situation to appoint a suc- cessor. The only difficulty is the latter point, and various rumours are in circulation, as to the individual likely to succeed Lord Goderich. As we have mentioned below, the Marquis of Wellesley is chiefly spoken of, and in that case, it is supposed, associate to himself other Whig Members of both Houses of Parliament. If this be the case, it is supposed in the city that the existing scheme of the Sinking Fund, established by Mr. Pitt, and persevered in by all his successors, with certain modifications, will be abandoned. Such a measure might have a serious effect upon the public securities. On the other hand it has been alleged, that the successor of Lord Lansdowne, Mr. Huskisson, Mr. Tierney, and others; and that his Majesty would of necessity be obliged to resort to those individuals who refused to act under the late Mr. Canning. We do not at all accord in this view of the subject, as we apprehend that none of the present Whig Cabinet Mini- sters would refuse to act under the Marquis Wellesley.

"Respecting the affairs of Turkey, nothing more is known this evening than will be seen below under the head "Money Market." No confirmation direct from Constantinople either official or otherwise has come to hand, so that all depends both in Paris and London upon the intelligence from Vienna, as to the advance in Austrian Stock and the cause of it.

"From Holland it appears by an express this afternoon, that the foreign funds negotiated in Amsterdam, had risen 1 per cent. owing to the statements from Vienna.

"THE MONEY MARKET.—An unusual degree of bustle was occasioned at the Stock market to-day by the nature of the intelligence from Turkey, which being coupled with a rise in French and Austrian stock at the latest dates, created a general panic among those who had effected sales, that our own funds rose 1 per cent. before the probabilities or improbabilities as to the authenticity of the accounts were canvassed— Consols for Account left off on Saturday afternoon at 83½, but, we believe, scarcely a bargain was made this morning until the quotation touched 84½. This elevation was exactly in the same proportion as that in French stock on Saturday, and was considered quite sufficient, taking it for granted that the news was essentially correct. The jobbers accordingly began to realize, but the market being supported by fresh purchases Consols for Account was momentarily depressed to 84½, rose in the course of the afternoon to 84½.

"The circumstance on which most stress is laid by the speculators, is the increased value of Austrian Metalliques when the latest advices left Vienna. It is agreed on the other hand, that if the prospects of a war with Turkey are less distant French Stock ought to have fetched much more than it not rendered one penny cheaper to the consumer, and he was convinced that if this country became dependent for supplies on foreigners the price would be overwhelming.

After some observations from Mr. Towers on the capabilities of this country to produce sufficient grain for consumption, the resolution was carried.

Mr. Lieve moved the second resolution, "that in the event of an intention being declared to propose to Parliament an alteration in the present Corn Laws, regulating the importa- tion of foreign corn, the Central Committee of Agriculturists be requested to assemble, and use their utmost exertions by legal and constitutional means, to avert any infringement in the protection granted to the British cultivator."

The third resolution related to the means of raising funds to defray expenses.

Mr. Stunt, of Kent, moved the fourth resolution to the effect, that the Agricultural Corn Committee, do petition Parliament on their grievances.

The resolutions were passed unanimously, and thanks were voted to the Chairman. After the Chairman had left his seat, some discussion arose on the propriety of petitioning Parlia- ment for a reduction of the Malt Duty, by such a step the condition of the labouring men would be rendered much better. This matter was postponed for the present and the meeting separated.

Yesterday afternoon a Messenger arrived at Dover from Ancona, and we learn, that the Ambassadors had not left Constantinople; and, it was supposed, that a war would not ensue.

On Friday evening about six o'clock Mr. Geo. Bar- ter, baker, at Eythorne, and Mrs. Best, of Barfrestone, grocer, were proceeding in a cart from Nonington to their homes, on the top of the hill from Frogham, they were stopped by two highwaymen, who with horrid threats and imprecations demanded their money. Mr. Barter at first thought it was a joke, and got out of the cart, when they assaulted him about the head with a bludgeon until he delivered all the money he had about him, amounting to a few shillings. He was then desired to deliver the reins up, which one of the fellows cut; upon this Barter ran towards Barfrestone to call assistance, when the villains threatening to shoot Mrs. Best unless she gave them her money, she delivered her purse, and they ran off. As soon as the alarm was given they were pursued to Dover and taken at the Golden Cross public house. They un- derwent an examination before Geo. Stringer, esq. stating their names to be Richard Climson and James Wells. The evidence was so conclusive against them that they were on Sunday sent off for trial at the ensuing Assizes at Maidstone. These fellows' behaviour was most audacious before the Magistrates, and though heavily ironed in Do- ver gaol the night previous to their being sent off, one of them succeeded in getting the irons off his legs, and the other his handcuffs off.

A few days back some depredators entered the premises of Mr. G. Culmer, of North Court Farm, and took the brass taps from the rain-water butts, and also cut the hair from the tails of several cows. They afterwards visited the farm of Mr. Fox, of Stourmouth, where they stole the manes and tails of four horses. Several other petty robberies have likewise subsequently been committed in that neighbourhood.

On Sunday afternoon, as a lad was riding a horse in Dover-street, in this City, the animal took fright and ran away; when in turning the corner by the Flying Horse Inn, it came in contact with the low railing by the side of the house, and unfortunately broke it's leg. The poor creature was, after a great deal of suffering, obliged to be killed. Happily the rider escaped without injury.

The hollow shot were tried on Wednesday at Wool- wich arsenal, in presence of his Royal Highness the Lord High Admiral, as well as Lieut. Jebb's plan for firing the windward guns of ships of war. The results of the ex- periments were considered very satisfactory. It is said the hollow shot, if found applicable to naval warfare, will create a new era in the art of destruction.

The body of a seafaring man, in appearance about forty years of age, was washed on shore on Friday last, at Great Stone, near New Romney. He had nothing about his person to discover his name, but, by his dress, ap- peared to have belonged to some coal-brig. His body was taken to New Romney for interment.

Sussex Winter Assizes commence to-morrow at Lewes, with a calendar of 33 prisoners for trial.

TROTTER MATCH.—A trotting match of ten miles took place on Friday, between Mr. Longdel and Mr. Hinks, for 200 sovereigns a side. Betting was 5 to 4 on Mr. Hinks. It was decided on a two mile piece of ground near Lewisham, in this county, and was won by Mr. Lon- del in 34 minutes 28 seconds.

DOVER, Dec. 17.

On Saturday evening, as a man named John McGuire, of the 63d-Regiment, and Jane Croken, the wife of a soldier of the same Regiment, were returning by the Military Road, from Dover to the Heights, between six and seven o'clock, and when near the top, it being very dark and raining hard, they mistook the road and got upon the ramparts, over which the poor woman walked, and dragging the man with her, fell

Lord MANVERS repeated his reasons for refusing to place confidence in ministers.
Lord DE DUNSTANVILLE would place confidence to the present ministers, especially on account of the Catholic Question. He always was favourable to it, and thought it would probably be carried by the present administration.
Lord ABERDEEN belonged to no opposition, and could not understand how any lasting opposition could be given, excepting from personal motives. He had in a great measure supported Lord Liverpool's Administration, although in many instances he had opposed it. In the present instance he maintained there had been no coalition. There had been an adherence, but no coalition. A great deal more had been said about a provisional Government than it deserved, but while he said this, he must refuse to give his entire confidence to the Administration. The success of the Catholic Question was infinitely less probable than prior to the change. He should like to know how the Bench of Bishops intended to act with respect to the Administration. Present appearances were of a very questionable nature.
Lord HOLLAND stated the grounds upon which he had changed his seat. He did not consider that the present Administration was formed on the principle of Lord Liverpool—loud cries of hear, hear.—It was one principle of Lord Liverpool's Government, that the head of the Administration should be inimical to his Lordship's Government. He (Lord Holland) changed his seat as he mainly agreed with the present Ministers. Both sides of the picture ought to be looked to; but he knew if the Ministry went out of office, others would come in whom it had been the object of his life to oppose and deprecate. A great deal had been said about a factious opposition, but if Noble Lords had sat a little longer in their places, they would be less sore. Except on the Catholic Question he had scarcely given one vote against Lord Liverpool's Government. He differed upon the subject of the Corporation and Test Acts. HOUSE OF COMMONS—Thursday May 17.

New Writs were ordered for a Burgess for Buckingham in the room of Mr. Freemantle, who had accepted the Stewardship of the Chiltern Hundreds—for the Borough of Knaresborough in the room of Mr. Tierney, who has accepted the Office of Master of the Mint—for the Borough of Caln in the room of Mr. Abercrombie, who has accepted the Office of Judge Advocate—and for Sir J. Macdonald, who has accepted the Office of one of the Commissioners for Affairs in India.

Sir E. KNATCHBULL presented a petition from Deal and Ramsgate against the Alehouse Licensing Bill.
Mr. HUME obtained leave to bring in a Bill for preventing frivolous and vexatious arrears for small debts, and another Bill to facilitate the recovery of small debts. The Bills were accordingly brought in and read a first time.
Mr. HUME postponed his motion for the repeal of the Stamp Duties on cheap publications, to Monday.
Mr. G. BANKES gave notice, that on Tuesday he would move for leave to bring in a Bill to relieve Roman Catholics from double assessment to the land tax.
Mr. PEELE gave notice, that he would to-morrow move for leave to bring in a Bill to amend the Criminal Law, the object of which was to abolish the benefit of Clergy.
The Lords Amendments to the Spring Guns Bill was read a second time.
Mr. C. CALVERT said, these amendments prevented setting Spring Guns in gardens by night. He moved a clause to make it lawful to set guns, &c. in gardens, inclosed by walls seven feet high.
Mr. G. BANKES supported the motion, and was left speaking.

The question, whether Mr. Canning's Ministry can command a majority in the House of Commons, will probably be decided soon. We allude to the Motion of which Mr. Beaumont has given notice for Tuesday, that the Administration as at present constructed, is undeserving the confidence of the House and country. Our own opinion is, that the Ministry will have a considerable majority, nor can we imagine any ground, upon which the House of Commons can as a body, agree to withdraw its confidence, from an Administration headed by the same individual, who has for some years previously led and managed the public business in that house; the majority of whose Cabinet consists of the same persons as the late Cabinet; and whose ministry is formed precisely upon the same principles, as that which the House has decided to support.

A rumour we observe is circulated, that Mr. Beaumont will not press a division, but this we can scarcely credit, as the very object of his motion, must be a trial of strength between the new opposition and the Ministry. And were he to decline a division, it would be at once an acknowledgement, that the Administration have the confidence of the House, as it undoubtedly has of the country. What interests may have been set to work, or put in operation for the purpose of supporting a motion of this description, we do not profess to know, but in the ceeded in persuading the principal men to put an end to their dissensions, previous to his sailing upon his intended expedition. If this be really so, we may calculate upon his Lordship, being enabled to achieve services of great importance.

Captain Astley is appointed to the command of his Majesty's ship Herald, at Deptford, to take out Mr. Lushington and family, as Governor of Madras.

A two-decked ship is ordered to be built in Chatham dock-yard, to be named the London. She is to be a first rate of 100 guns.

At Wingham fair on Saturday, but little business was transacted. The market at Canterbury was also unusually dull.

On Wednesday morning, a fire broke out in the premises of Mr. Tassell, baker, at Upnor, by which the bakehouse was destroyed, and some damage done to the dwelling-house.

On Sunday morning last, about half-past two o'clock, the workmen employed in the tunnel of the Canterbury and Whitstable rail-way, effected a communication with the north and south ends, by means of cutting an aperture about sixty five yards in length. The situation of the excavators had been truly distressing for some time, in consequence of the stagnated state of the air, but the great rush of the purer element, has entirely cleared the tunnel. It appears, (so nice was the calculation of the late engineer, Mr. John Dixon,) that although the line of rail is more than 2,400 feet in length, it has been preserved to within an inch.—We understand a thin strata of coal, (of about two inches) was discovered within these few days.—The perforation of this hill has brought to light many curious geological specimens.

A dangerous riot occurred on Monday evening at the Guildhall Tap, Guildhall-street, in this city, between a party of soldiers and some of the people drinking in the house. The soldiers attacked the company with pokers and other weapons, with which they inflicted severe and dangerous wounds upon those who fell in their way. Some of them were apprehended, and underwent an examination before the Mayor on Tuesday morning, and two committed for trial. We are sorry to say, that the landlord of the Tap was so severely bruised about the head and body with a poker, as to admit of some doubt of his recovery.

About five or six weeks ago, four men were drinking at the Key, Key-street, on a Sunday afternoon, when their conduct becoming so outrageous, it was necessary to send for a constable to take them into custody. The circumstances have since been investigated by General Gosselin and other Magistrates, who fined them 5s. each and expenses, which three of them being unable to pay, they were sentenced to sit in the stocks for six hours each on different days in Key-street. The first exhibition took place on Tuesday last.

On Saturday last, as Mr. Lewis, of Faversham, was returning from Ashford in a gig, he observed a pair of boots by the side of a wood on the road; he immediately alighted, and on looking about in the wood found an elegant gold watch, chain, and seals, and a little further on he saw a person lying quite naked, his clothes being scattered about in all directions. Mr. Lewis on rousing the man, discovered that his mind was disordered, and he in consequence determined humanely to take care of him, he therefore dressed the unfortunate person, placed him in his chaise, and took him to his house at Faversham, where by his kind treatment and the united skill and medicine of Mr. Chittenden, surgeon, of that place, the poor fellow recovered on Sunday night so far as to tell who he was and where he came from.—It appears that he is of respectable connexions in London, and had left his home in a fit of mental delusion; an advertisement also appeared in a Sunday paper, offering a reward of twenty guineas for a gentleman answering the description of the above person, which likewise agreed with his story. Mr. Lewis in consequence took him to London on Monday, and received the reward together with the thanks of his disconsolate family. The greatest praise is due to Mr. L. for his humanity in taking care of him in the first instance, as well as the attention shewn to him afterwards.

Fire at the Gunpowder Works, Davington near Faversham, belonging to John Hall, esq.—Yesterday morning about eleven o'clock, some saltpetre bags were discovered to be on fire, and which had communicated with the timbers of the building in which they had been packed; at the time unfortunately the wind was very high, and the utmost alarm and consternation took place among the workmen on the premises, to the number of nearly 30, who expected every moment to be blown up in the air, the fire being very near the drying house and magazine, which contained a very large quantity of gunpowder, finished. Fortunately Mr. Hall, jun. the son of the proprietor of the works happened to be there, when he with the utmost coolness and undaunted feelings immediately repaired to the place in flames, and with his men caused the bags on fire to be removed to a pond adjoining the works, and afterwards, by means of a plentiful supply of water, extinguished the premises on fire. During the time of the removal of the bags on fire, the sparks were flying about in all directions, and had the premises blown up, the lives of all the workmen would evidently been

And were he to decline a division, it would be at once an acknowledgement, that the Administration have the confidence of the House, as it undoubtedly has of the country. What interests may have been set to work, or put in operation for the purpose of supporting a motion of this description, we do not profess to know, but in the event of an opposition being formed, of sufficient strength to embarrass the administration, a new Parliament will no doubt be called, as soon as it is found convenient. It is difficult to imagine the existence of a formidable opposition, destitute of any public grounds to stand upon, and if one of that kind is, or can be formed, it will be a most curious political anomaly.

It will be seen that Lord Redesdale brought forward his resolutions respecting the Corn Trade, in the House of Lords, on Tuesday, but as his Lordship met with little or no support, and ultimately withdrew his propositions, it is scarcely necessary to make any remark upon them.—We think, however, that the Noble Lord is mistaken in supposing, that the effect of the plan of Ministers as an-transacted. The market at Canterbury was also unusually dull.

On Wednesday morning, a fire broke out in the premises of Mr. Tassell, baker, at Upton; by which the bakehouse was destroyed, and some damage done to the dwelling-house.

On Sunday morning last, about half-past two o'clock, the workmen employed in the tunnel of the Canterbury and Whitstable rail-way, effected a communication with the north and south ends, by means of cutting an aperture about sixty five yards in length. The situation of the excavators had been truly distressing for some time, in consequence of the stagnated state of the air, but the great rush of the purer element, has entirely cleared the tunnel. It appears, (so nice was the calculation of the late engineer, Mr. John Dixon,) that although the line of rail is more than 2,400 feet in length, it has been preserved to within an inch.—We understand a thin strata of coal, (of about two inches) was discovered within these few days.—The perforation of this hill has brought to light many curious geological specimens.

A dangerous riot occurred on Monday evening at the Guildhall Tap, Guildhall-street, in this city, between a party of soldiers and some of the people drinking in the house. The soldiers attacked the company with pokers and other weapons, with which they inflicted severe and dangerous wounds upon those who fell in their way. Some of them were apprehended, and underwent an examination before the Mayor on Tuesday morning, and two committed for trial. We are sorry to say, that the landlord of the Tap was so severely bruised about the head and body with a poker, as to admit of some doubt of his recovery.

About five or six weeks ago, four men were drinking at the Key, Key-street, on a Sunday afternoon, when their conduct becoming so outrageous, it was necessary to send for a constable to take them into custody. The circumstances have since been investigated by General Gosselin and other Magistrates, who fined them 5s. each and expenses, which three of them being unable to pay, they were sentenced to sit in the stocks for six hours each on different days in Key-street. The first exhibition took place on Tuesday last.

On Saturday last, as Mr. Lewis, of Faversham, was returning from Ashford in a gig, he observed a pair of boots by the side of a wood on the road; he immediately alighted, and on looking about in the wood found an elegant gold watch, chain, and seals, and a little further on he saw a person lying quite naked, his clothes being scattered about in all directions. Mr. Lewis on rousing the man, discovered that his mind was disordered, and he in consequence determined humanely to take care of him, he therefore dressed the unfortunate person, placed him in his chaise, and took him to his house at Faversham, where by his kind treatment and the united skill and medicine of Mr. Chittenden, surgeon, of that place, the poor fellow recovered on Sunday night so far as to tell who he was and where he came from.—It appears that he is of respectable connexions in London, and had left his home in a fit of mental delusion; an advertisement also appeared in a Sunday paper, offering a reward of twenty guineas for a gentleman answering the description of the above person, which likewise agreed with his story. Mr. Lewis in consequence took him to London on Monday, and received the reward together with the thanks of his disconsolate family. The greatest praise is due to Mr. L. for his humanity in taking care of him in the first instance, as well as the attention shewn to him afterwards.

Fire at the Gunpowder Works, Derington near Faversham, belonging to John Hall, esq.—Yesterday morning about eleven o'clock, some saltpetre bags were discovered to be on fire, and which had communicated with the timbers of the building in which they had been packed; at the time unfortunately the wind was very high, and the utmost alarm and consternation took place among the workmen on the premises, to the number of nearly 50, who expected every moment to be blown up in the air, the fire being very near the drying house and magazine, which contained a very large quantity of gunpowder, finished. Fortunately Mr. Hall, jun. the son of the proprietor of the works happened to be there, when he with the utmost coolness and undaunted feelings immediately repaired to the place in flames, and with his men caused the bags on fire to be removed to a pond adjoining the works, and afterwards, by means of a plentiful supply of water, extinguished the premises on fire. During the time of the removal of the bags on fire, the sparks were flying about in all directions, and had the premises blown up, the lives of all the workmen would evidently been lost; therefore, the utmost praise is due to Mr. Hall, jun. in risking his own life in the way he did to save those of his fellow creatures, and for his great exertions and dauntless conduct upon such an alarming and most dangerous of all, fires. The accident is thought to have been occasioned by the ignition of the saltpetre bags, or a spark from the drying chimney.

SHEERNESS, MAY 15.

On Saturday last, several official gentlemen connected with the Admiralty, arrived at Sheerness, when they immediately proceeded with Mr. Thomas, the resident architect of the new works, and several of the officers of the dock yard, to survey the building lately erected by Sir Edward Banks for an hotel, near Mile-Down.

Earl of Pembroke and Montgomery, K.G. aged 68. By his death, the Colonelcy of the 5th (Inniskillen) Regiment of Dragoons and the Governorship of Guernsey, have become vacant.

The iron trade of Scotland continues in an improving state. The demand for home consumption and exportation is good, and there are no stocks on hand. No. 1 pig iron is selling at 6l. 10s. a ton, No. 2, 6l.; and No. 3, 5l. 10s. a ton. These rates are still one-half under the prices of the year 1825, when iron was 15l. a ton; but the Scottish iron masters are now fully able to cope with those of Staffordshire and Shropshire.—Glasgow Chronicle.

SALE OF FOREIGN WOOL.—Friday afternoon there was a very full attendance of persons connected with the Wool Trade at Garraway's Coffee House, Change Alley, where upwards of 700 bales of Spanish, Russian, and Austrian Wool were brought to the hammer. The first descriptions offered were low Spanish wools, which were purchased readily, at from 9½d. to 10d. per lb. with the duty paid. The next lots were of a superior description of Spanish Wool, and they sold at from 1s. 1½d. to 1s. 3d. per lb. duty paid. The superior Spanish Wools were next offered, and some lots fetched as high as 1s. 6d. per lb. The Russian and Austrian Wool averaged the full market price.

DESTRUCTIVE FIRE.—Sunday morning, about three o'clock, a fire broke out in the house of Mrs. Holland, straw bonnet maker, in Bermondsey street, which destroyed the same, together with several adjoining premises.

PRESENTATION OF COLOURS TO THE PORTSMOUTH DIVISION OF MARINES.

Postsmouth, Oct. 27.—Last evening, his Royal Highness the Lord High Admiral arrived at the Admiralty House, preparatory to his presenting, this morning, the Portsmouth Division of Royal Marines with the new Colours which his Majesty has graciously assigned to that Corps. His Royal Highness dined with our Commander-in-Chief, Admiral the Hon. Sir Robert Stopford, and a select party. At about half-past nine this morning, his Royal Highness, accompanied by Admiral the Hon. Sir Robert Stopford, Rear Admiral Sir Thomas Hardy, Sir George Cockburn, Sir James Cockburn, Captain the Hon. Robt. C. Spencer, R.N. (private Secretary to the Lord High Admiral) embarked from the Sally-port in his Majesty's steam vessel the Lightning, under a royal salute from the fleet, with manned yards, and proceeded on board his Majesty's frigate Galatea, commanded by Sir Charles Sullivan, bart. at Spithead, which ship he reached in fifteen minutes. He continued on board about an hour, inspecting the ship, &c. and then visited the new sloop of war Satellite, Captain J. M. Laws, (built by Sir Robert Seppings) which is fitted with a new gun-carriage, the invention of General Miller (Inspector of Ordnance and Gun-carriages) improved by Sir Thomas Hardy, on a principle which admits of the gun being fired with considerably greater ease and facility than those which are mounted on the old carriages.

At half-past eleven his Royal Highness left the Satellite, under a Royal salute from the fleet, and landed from the steamer at Southsea Common, to perform the gratifying duty which was the especial object of his present visit. The Royal Marine corps, under the command of Colonel Moncrieffe, and the Royal Marine Artillery, under the command of Lieut. Colonel Sir Richard Williams, K.C.B. had assembled on the Common; and all the troops of the line, in the garrison, and Lieutenant Colonel Lindgren's corps of Portsmouth Cavalry, were upon duty on the ground in honour of the ceremony.

The troops marched past his Royal Highness in ordinary and quick time, then formed an oblong square, when his Royal Highness delivered a long and eloquent address (which exceeded an hour in the delivery,) and concluded by adverting to the services of all the troops then assembled, viz. the 27th, 28th, and 58th regiments, in their employ at the capture of the Havannah, under the Earl of Albemarle, in scaling the heights of Quebec, under General Wolfe, and in their more recent gallant exploits. The new colours of the Royal Marine Division were then unfurled, their honourable and distinguished bearings and devices described, and were then presented in due form.

The officers celebrated the day at the mess—the Serjeants dined together—the Corporals had also a dinner; and Colonel Moncrieffe generously presented every man with a quart of good English beer with his dinner.

The Barrack gate was brilliantly and beautifully illuminated, by a perfect representation, in coloured lamps, on a platform thirty-nine feet in height, of their new colours, with the devices, &c. The interior of the Barracks was also illuminated, with the Lord High Admiral's flag, in coloured lamps, and several transparencies, &c.

After the ceremony of the presentation of the colours, the Lord High Admiral honoured the Lieutenant-Governor, Major-General Sir James Lyon, K.C.B. with his company to partake of a dejeuné a la fourchette, to which the distinguished persons who accompanied his Royal Highness in his visit, and all the principal Naval and Military Officers, with their Ladies, were present.

CANTERBURY, October 30.

London, Monday Night.

Only about five minutes before the closing of the Stock Exchange an express arrived from Paris with intelligence of Saturday last, by which it appears that the

to be carried by their crews into MIO.

THE MONEY MARKET.—The Consol market opened rather briskly this morning at 87½, which is full ¼ per Cent. above the price at which business was done in private bargains late on Saturday evening. The improvement is to be attributed to the disbelief that any dispute was likely to arise with Austria in consequence of the part she has taken with reference to the negotiations in Constantinople. Early in the day Consols for Account reached 87½, which was the highest price they attained, and perhaps they would not have been sold at that advance but for the exertions of the individuals supposed to act for a rise.

In the afternoon, owing to the non arrival of the expected express from Paris, the market was thinly attended, and until just before the close of business the transactions possessed little interest. A decline had previously occurred to 87½, but as soon as it was known that the French Funds on Saturday were rather better, Consols for Account ascended to 87½, and Consols for Money to 87½. The bargains in Money Stock were confined to transfers for to-morrow, as this was a close holiday at the Bank. The variation in the heavy Stock were very trifling during the whole day. The premium on Exchequer Bills advanced 1s. but India Bonds remained the same as on Saturday.

There was a good deal of speculation in the South American Securities to-day, and all of them with the exception of Colombian have improved in a greater or less degree.

The last prices were—Red. Ann. 87—Consols 87½—Ditto for Acc. 87½—3¼ per Cents. 94¼—4 per Cents. 102¼—Exchequer Bills 63s. prem.—India Bonds 99s. prem.—Bank Stock 215¼.

Russian 94½—Danish 62—Prussian 101—Greek 16¼—Portuguese 75¼—Mexican 54¼—Colombian 27¼—Chili 26—Brazil 62—Buenos Ayres 51¼.

We understand it to be the particular wish of the Stewards for the first County Ball at Bellingham's Rooms, that the company should assemble at nine o'clock and the dancing commence at that hour. By this new regulation the dancing may finish at two o'clock instead of four, which appears to give general satisfaction in the neighbourhood, and will, no doubt, be adopted through the season.

The Earl of Liverpool continues at Coombe Wood.—The health of his Lordship has, during the last few weeks, slightly improved. The Noble Earl, accompanied by his Countess, takes an airing in his carriage daily, when the weather is fine.

By a census taken, the inhabitants of the Isle of Thanet exceed 20,000; and 12,000 fall to the portion of Margate.

The paragraph which stated that the present Earl of Guilford is nephew to the late Earl is erroneous. The minister, Lord North, who succeeded to the earldom of Guilford on the death of his father, and the Hon. Brownlow North, late Bishop of Winchester, were brothers: the late Earl of Guilford was son to the minister; the present earl is son of the late Bishop of Winchester. By the death of his first cousin, he succeeds to the earldom, and to a property of 18,000l. a year.—London Paper.

It has long been a subject of complaint, that parishes and individuals are made answerable for the deficiencies of tax-collectors, over whom they have no controul, and who are appointed by commissioners acting on behalf of the crown. It ought, however, to be known, that although no security is taken of the collectors on the part of the crown, yet that, by the act of the 43d Geo. III. c. 99, the commissioners of taxes are bound to take securities for the parish, on a request being made to them for that purpose by two or more resident householders.

William Wright and Thomas Burnett were severally convicted before the Magistrates, at Mr. Sandys' office, on Saturday last, and sentenced to fourteen days hard labour in the house of correction at Saint Augustine's, for stealing a quantity of grapes from the garden of Mrs. Morris, of Patricbourne, on the 9th instant.

In the night of the 23d instant, a shoemaker's shop, at Denton, belonging to Mr. Page, was broken into by taking off the tiles, and robbed of goods to the amount of ten pounds, with which the thieves got clear off.

Wednesday morning, one of the Preventive service men, belonging to the Eccleburn Watch House, near Hastings, accidentally shot himself through the thigh, with his pistol, in consequence of the string, which is used as a security, falling off the lock, fortunately neither the femoral artery, thigh-bone, or knee joint were injured; and the man is in a fair way of recovery.

An Inquest was held yesterday at Saint Augustine's Gaol, near this city, before Mr. T. T. Delasaux, Coroner, on the body of a female child, aged about fourteen months, named Wratten Frances Drury. The mother of the child (being a prisoner) stated that the child had been a short time ill, and died on Saturday last from convulsions. The Jury accordingly returned a verdict that the deceased "died by the visitation of God."

PEGWELL BAY.—This beautiful marine retreat has this season been honored with a great influx of visitants, and many of the first distinction. Her Royal Highness the Duchess of Kent with the amiable Princesses particularly selected this spot in the frequency of their visits during their recent stay at Ramsgate, and were pleased to express the high admiration and gratification they felt at the beautiful and picturesque scenery with which this delightful spot abounds. The spirited proprietor of the respectable the prisoner in concert with a man of the name of Belchamber, who has not yet been apprehended, it is believed actually stole the horse from the Mrs. Gilroy. A professional person of the name attended on behalf of the prisoner, who cross-examined witnesses and produced others to establish an evidence having been gone through the law, and in his address to the Jury gave them to that he considered the evidence of that nature, not upon its merits find the prisoner guilty, a some considerable deliberation returned a verdict of acquittal.

A soldier, a native of the Emerald Isle, was assaulted committed on the watchman of the town in quarters there, and labouring under the plea of sundry copious libations of heavy wet. His conduct evinced his true hibernian spirit, and with such aggravated circumstances, that upon finding a verdict of guilty, he was sentenced to suffer a hard labour for twelve calendar months.

Thomas Collard, well known to the Court, answer for an assault on Mr Hicks, chymist, a but was discharged in consequence of that gentleman any proceedings against him, for which it is hoped will remain gratefully thankful, and be a blessing for the future.

HIS MAJESTY'S YACHT IN DAN

On Monday last two officers of excise, named Cook, stationed at Deptford, received information quantity of tobacco had been smuggled over from the crew of his Majesty's yacht the Royal Sovereign having landed the Queen of Wurtemberg. The certain that the tobacco had been removed from board the Bacchus hulk, for the purpose of being thence on shore as opportunities presented. On mentioned, as the officer (Cook) was engaged on out," he met a woman close to the water side basket, which, on examining, he found to contain tobacco. On questioning her as to the manner came into her possession, she acknowledged that wife of one of the seamen on board that hulk, the tobacco was brought over by the yacht, and employed by some of the crew to dispose of it to vantage. On Tuesday the defendant was taken Barnard and R. Edmonds, Esqrs. at Greenwich circumstances having been stated against her, convicted in the full penalty of 100l. and in default committed to gaol during the pleasure of the Court of Excise. The officers, it appeared, obtained a search the hulk, but did not succeed in seizing contraband articles on board. They, however, made of a quantity at a public house called the North S
