Words and music

TWO 1st Bridge Guides have won honours in a regional arts festival.

Earlier in the year, the London and South East England Girl Guides invited entries for a festival of creative art, to include photography, design, writing, music and dance.

Emma Field, aged 14 years who attends Barton Court School, and Lucinda Spencer, also 14, who is at the Archbishop's School, entered and both won awards.

Emma wrote the words and music for a song suitable for a religious festival and Lucinda wrote 500 words on The Best Day of my Life ... So Far.

The best musical items from all entries were chosen to form part of the Festival Concert in the Guildhall in London on Saturday, June 6, and Emma performed her Christmas Carol in front of an invited audience.

Lucinda's story won first prize in its section and was on display at the Guildhall for the same event.

Emma was the only Guide performing from the Canterbury area.
