of rope from his Majesty's ship Hermoine.—
Fined 1s. and six months imprisonment.

John Jones, for stealing one iron link, weighing 10lb. out of his Majesty's Dock-yard, in Woolwich.—Six weeks imprisonment in Deptford

As one proof of the base ingratitude of Joseph Passmore, now under sentence of death in Maidstone gaol for Arson, we have it from undoubted authority to declare, that he never once made the least acknowledgment to the surgeon who saved up, dressed and cured the wounds in his throat, which were given him on the road by two felons as he was conveying them from Deptford to Maidstone jail, in October, 1784, but, on the contrary, although the sum charged was trifling, actually carried the same into litigation to avoid payment.

We are concerned the length of the Maidstone Gaol Calendar, and other intelligence prevents our complying with the requests of our numerous correspondents from different places in this county. In the course of last week, Sandwich, Ashford, Deal, Sheerness Fordwich, Hythe, and we might add, the villages of Bridge, Mersham, Eastry, Boughton, Chartham, Woodnesborough, Sturry, Ickham, &c. and, indeed, single houses; such has been the prevailing spirit of a grateful people, at every place where they have illuminated, it has been in a stile which at once bespoke the sincerest happiness.

Agreeable to what we stated on Tuesday last, respecting the intended celebration of his Majesty's recovery, we believe there never was a day spent with more harmony and festivity; the morning was ushered in by the ringing of bells, and flags were hoisted on the different gates of our City, which had a pleasing effect; about two o'clock the 11th regiment of light dragoons were drawn up opposite the Guildhall, and fired three vollies in honor of the King and Royal Family, and a fourth to the City of Canterbury; soon after which a procession was formed of the army, the clergy, the neighbouring gentlemen, and citizens, to the Fountain tavern, (preceded by the band playing, God save King) where a public dinner was served up to 160 gentlemen.
After dinner the gentlemen singers, and boys of the Cathedral performed an Ode, and the dragoons being again assembled opposite the Fountain, fired three vollies. The company seemed extremely happy in the spirited and very meritorious conduct of the Mayor, who acted as chairman; the circling glass went briskly round, the toasts were judiciously given, and frequently accompanied with loud huzzas. At seven the company adjourned to see the illuminations, which we believe without exception, were more splendid and brilliant than ever remembered, every inhabitant studying to excel. A number of transparencies and devices were exhibited, a display of fire-works from West Gate, and a large bon-fire on Dean John Hill, added to the lustre of the evening. The streets were crowded with carriages and foot passengers. After the illuminations the gentlemen again assembled at the Fountain, and were entertained by the stewards the remaining part of the evening.

Mr. Wm. Burnby's house was beautifully illuminated with a pyramidal shew of candles, and the best transparency exhibited in the city. His brother, Mr. J. Burnby, in St. Peter's, gave great satisfaction to the spectators; in his parlour were a profusion of ornamental lights, around which were a large bower of evergreens; in the middle the greatest likeness of his Majesty in the city appeared painted in oyl, crowned with laurel tree, and those surrounded by a variety of excellent painting, which had the most pleasing effect.

Extract of a letter from Folkestone, March 21.

"The town of Folkestone has not been the least remarkable in testifying its loyalty: On Thursday in consequence of a notification from the Mayor, there was a very brilliant illumination through every street, which were paraded by

HOP INTELLIGENCE.

A Correspondent has favoured us with the following authentic state of the Hop-plantations in West Kent, viz.—East and West Farley, Linton, Peckham, Teston, Nettleshead, Boxley, Hutton, Tuff of Fly and Lice, Town-Malling, &c. as most places: All the Weld of Kent, full of vermin, as well as the outskirts of the plantations. In some places the Bine is strong and growing at present; but in general very foul.

In East Kent the fly is in general from five to twenty on a leaf; besides, in some places, the flea hath been so destructive to the bine, that they are hardly got to the poles; and, from their weak state, we have but little hopes of their producing any great quantity.

The following is a correct state of the Game of Cricket, between Sir Horace Mann, and the Gentlemen of the Mary-le-bone Club, which is put off till Monday the 15th, in consequence of the continual rain.

And four wickets down. Last week, the 15th, or King's light dragoons, marched into this county, from Sussex, and are to be stationed round the coast.

Thursday being his Majesty's Birth-day, who entered into his 52d year, the morning was ushered in by the ringing of bells. In the evening the principal inhabitants assembled at the Fleur de Lis and the King's Head Inns, in this city, and drank the healths of the King, Queen, and Royal Family. The East Kent Battalion of Militia were drawn up, and fired three volleys during the above toasts. Several other loyal and constitutional toasts were drank, and the evening was spent with the greatest harmony and festivity.

Saturday morning last the 22d regiment of foot were reviewed at Dover Castle by General Topham. The review commenced at 7 o'clock, and was not finished till near one. The corps went through their various manœuvres with great spirit, and made a fine appearance. A public dinner was given by the General to the officers and many neighbouring gentlemen.

Saturday part of the East Kent battalion of militia, which had been trained and exercised in this city for the customary period, were disembodied.

Extract of letter from Lewes, June 6.

"In a thunder storm on Tuesday evening last, a ball of fire fell on a barn, standing in the of Tunbridge school, when all the scholars were publicly examined by the Rev. Dr. ... boundary of Westminster, before the Government and the neighbouring clergy and ... examiner spoke in the highest terms of the gentlemen's singular proficiency at very early ages. Speeches were spoken with great ease and propriety, by Messrs. Simpson, Davis, Elwyns, Hupter, Kingston, and ... after which the company dined together in great festivity.

The town was decorated from one end to the other with large branches of verdant ... honour of the day, which always constitutes a kind of jubilee at Tunbridge.

A few nights since some thieves found means to break into Reculver church, and stole ... from a surplice, a gown, and a communion cloth.

Monday last, as Thomas Sankey, a lad about 17 years of age, one of the younger sons of Mr. Sankey, of Milton, near this city, was riding a young horse with corn to mill, on the ... road, the animal, on being touched by another horse passing, started and threw him on his back, fortunately treading upon the young man's ... and neck, he received so much injury, that he standing every assistance, that he died on Tuesday morning.

Thursday was married at St. Margaret's church, Mr. John Jacob, of Nackington, to Miss Le Grand, daughter of Mr. Le Grand, of Walling street, in this city.

BAUME de VIE.
THIS celebrated and long established medicine fortifies the stomach and bowels, purifies the blood and Juices, and gives to the whole system its natural equilibrium. To these qualities we attribute its having proved so eminently serviceable in gouty, rheumatic, bilious, and scorbutic habits. From the same principle, it has never failed to relieve in languid, nervous, and hypochondriac cases; and in female disorders it has been found particularly beneficial.
 The Public are requested to take notice, that by favour of the Commissioners of Stamps, the names of T. Becket, and Messrs. Dicey and Co. are engraved on the labels, and affixed on every bottle; and that on the paper pasted on the side of each bottle, the hand-writing of T. Becket, a proprietor, is continued as usual.
 Observe—the counterfeiting either the Stamp-Office engraving or the hand writing is a CAPITAL OFFENCE.
 Sold wholesale by Dicey and Co. Bow-church Yard, London; and retail by T. Becket, Pall-Mall; also by keeper in most towns. Price 2s. per bottle. Duvv 6d.

conduct of the English nation, which the Duke's first letter had successfully made.

Extract of a letter from Paris, Aug. 10.

"Saturday last, upon the representation of the Minister, the National Assembly voted a loan of 30 millions, in order to provide for the pressing exigencies of the moment, until the constitutions and the general state of the finances and ways and means can come regularly before the Assembly.

"The French Guards were voted each a medal of 50 livres, but with sentiments that do them infinite honour; they sent three of their body to the Hotel de Ville, to beg leave to decline this medal, as being too expensive, and likewise any other pecuniary emolument from their fellow-citizens, willing however, as a mark of approbation, a medal of six livres each to wear at their button. They are to be incorporated with the City Militia, and to have 20 sols per day. No sentiments or conduct can be more noble or disinterested than those of these poor fellows throughout the whole. The French Comedy offered them the produce of two nights representations, which they positively refused to accept."

Extract of a letter from Constantinople, June 8.

"It was thought the disgrace of the late Grand Vizir, Jusuf Pacha, would not have taken place till the end of the campaign; but the confirmation of the disagreeable news from Moldavia hastened it. The character of his successor is a very good one; he is said to be brave, enterprising, and fit to command an army. He is supposed to be the person who last year formed and executed the plan of the invasion of the Bannat; and that had the Grand Vizir followed the whole of his advice, he would have driven the Imperialists from that province. But Jusuf Pacha thought that operation dangerous, imagining the flight of the Germans into the interior part of the country was only a scheme to draw him into the heart of it, and then force him to an engagement. However, it is certain, that the deposition of the Grand Vizir is pleasing to the people and to the merchants of all nations.

"The French Ambassador has requested the Porte to interpose, and engage the Algerines to renew the treaty with his most Christian Majesty; but hitherto the Porte has given no definitive answer, nor do they seem likely to do it yet.

"Notwithstanding the great care taken at the beginning of the new reign to prevent a scarcity of provisions in this capital, the people have been within these few days in the utmost want of them. Bread, meat, and other of the chief articles of life, were already above double the price they were before the war; and what adds to this misfortune is the revolt which has happened in Egypt, which deprives us of the provisions with which that rich and fertile province furnished the capital at this time, when we get very little from the Black Sea, and the islands of the Archipelago, on account of the appearance of the Russians in those two seas; but we have a hope (though it is a very feeble one) that the Ottoman fleet will drive them out and disperse them."

By express from Plympton we find, that their Majesties and Royal Family arrived safe at Saltram on Saturday at four o'clock.

They were received with a salute of twenty-one guns from the Amphitheatre Battery.

A select party of forty of the rope-makers of the Royal Dock Yard, dressed in white, trimmed with purple ribbons, carrying emblematical colours, preceded their Majesties.

We hear that it is in the Minister's contemplation ton's chestnut colt, 4 yrs. old, and Mr. Brown's brown horse 5 yrs. old, which was won by the former. At starting, six to four in favour of Mr. Hampton's. Mr. Brown's horse was drawn after the first heat.

At our ensuing Races great sport is expected, as the following are already at Bridge Hill:

Ld. Egremont's Driver, 6 yrs. old.

Mr. Freeman's ch. h. Woodlark, 6 yrs. old.

are for the King's Plate, and another expected.

The following horses are for the different plates:

Our new Theatre is now nearly completed; the stile of the boxes, &c. after the manner of the Bath Theatre; the scenery, which is entirely new, and executed by a capital artist from Drury-lane Theatre, is far superior to any thing of the kind ever exhibited in this city. Under these circumstances, we have no doubt it will be found a pleasing companion to the races, and that the spirited manager will reap a golden harvest.

ROYAL KENTISH BOWMEN.

About one hundred Members dressed in full uniform, met on Thursday on Deptford Heath to shoot for the Bugle Horn.

The dresses were, a green coat, lined with yellow buff silk, and black cape, with waistcoat and breeches the same as the coat lining, half boots, white silk stockings, the buttons gold, with his Royal Highness's Feathers, and R. K. B. in cypher, elegantly gilt, engraved thereon; the hat small and round, with the front turned up before, and fastened with an extreme neat gold loop, and a button the same as the coat only smaller; in the front was a plume of black feathers and an Oak Bough.

They walked in procession round the ground, headed by a band of music, and at twelve began to shoot.

The prize was adjudged to J. E. Maddocks, Esq. for the first 55 shoots.

R. Howorth, Esq. was the second in at 52.

As much mischief has lately been done in several of our hop-grounds, by the bines being cut, either wantonly or maliciously, the planters are determined to offer a reward for the discovery of the offenders, who will certainly be prosecuted with the utmost rigour of the law; and that no person may plead ignorance of the statutes in that behalf made, the following clause is published for general information:

By the stat. 6 Geo. 3d. ch. 37. s. 6, it is enacted, "That if any person or persons shall unlawfully and maliciously cut any hop-bines growing on poles in any plantation of hops, every person or persons so offending, being thereof lawfully convicted, shall be adjudged guilty of felony, and shall suffer death as in cases of felony, without benefit of clergy."

On Saturday evening a woman was seen pulling up the hop-bine of Mr. Richard Shepherd of Maidstone, but on account of a person last Affizes who was tried and committed for a similar offence, (as the law in that case referred to the

At half past nine his Majesty landed at the Viewalling Office-stairs.

On his entering the Lower Fort, Lord George Lenox, the Governor, kneeling, presented his Majesty with the keys of the citadel, saying,
"God bless your Majesty, to whom I now resign the government of the citadel."

The King then desired him to rise, presented the Governor with the keys, and proceeded to the grand southern gate.

The guard then received his Majesty with rested arms, and he proceeded to examine the citadel, the ramparts, and storehouse, and appeared delighted with the prospect from the flagstaff.

He was attended by the Duke of Richmond, Governor, and Lieutenant Governor, Lord Chatham, &c. &c.

After inspecting every thing worthy of notice, his Majesty retired to the Governor's house, and received the Address of the Mayor and Corporation. On this occasion, they had the honour done them to kiss his hand, and were received very graciously.

SATURDAY, August 22.

Yesterday their Majesties and the Princesses, with their attendants, arrived at Oneston at half past eight o'clock, and embarked immediately in barges, preceded, as usual, by the cutter rowed by eight young women, to whom his Majesty has ordered a present of twenty guineas, and attended by all the boats of the fleet.

The Royal Family arrived at Mount Edgecumbe at half past ten o'clock, and were received by the Earl and Countess of Mount Edgumbe, Lord and Lady S. Valletort, and many of the nobility, on a platform raised by the side of the battery, and covered with baize.

It is reported that Dr. Willis has accepted a pension of one thousand pounds a year, for 21 years for himself, and five hundred pounds a year for his son, the Doctor, for life, as the public reward for their medical attendance on the King.

lets out the same without being entered, they are liable to a penalty of Seven Pounds.

Friday evening between the hours of five and eight o'clock we had a heavy fall of rain in this city and neighbourhood. The roads leading to Nackington and Bridge were so much inundated as to render passing very unsafe. In many of the hop-grounds and fields large furrows are made by the rapidity of the water, and part of a quick-set hedge has been broke down near the sign of Dover. The storm was but little felt on Barham Downs.

The Hop plantations in this neighbourhood have much improved since the heavy rain on terminated in favor of the latter. A ne particu-

On Friday last a fire broke out in the Poor House at Minster in the Isle of Sheppy, which consumed the same with part of the furniture.— Luckily it was discovered in the day-time, which prevented any further mischief being done.

The following are the particulars respecting the melancholy accident of the post-boy near Folk-stone:—On Sunday se'nnight in the evening, the lad took up at the Ship, in Dover, several passengers for Folkestone, at which place he arrived about eleven o'clock, and set the passengers down at the Folkestone Arms; it being then dark, and the wind blowing hard, with heavy showers of rain, the landlord of the inn endeavoured to persuade the driver to take off his horses and stay all night; but the lad being determined on returning, he was advised, to avoid the weather, to ride in the chaise, which he said he would do after he was out of town; he observed that he had not been in bed for several nights and was very much fatigued. It is supposed he fell asleep soon after he left the town, and the horses taking the summer road, which the post-boys have made for the convenience of easy driving, and which in many places runs very near the precipice—by the tract of the wheel it appears the carriage had gradually inclined for the length of twenty yards, from the regular wheel track in the road to the edge of the cliff, and the darkness of the night rendered the horses insensible to their danger, and probably the first knowledge the poor fellow had of his dreadful situation was by the blow that put an end to his life. He received a violent contusion on his forehead, and lower part of his face was cut open from one jaw to the other. The next morning he was discovered hanging with his arm round the stump of a tree, about 60 feet down; the horses at some distance lower, dead and very much bruised; and what was very singular, totally disengaged from their harnesses and collars. The chaise was broke into numberless pieces.

It is proper to observe that the regular turnpike-road is very good, and quite removed from the danger to which people are exposed on the other.

A vast number of prisoners, who had on former occasions received sentence of death, but whose executions had been delayed during the lately Royal indisposition, and from other causes were brought up, and asked whether they would accept his Majesty's mercy, on condition of their being transported to New South Wales during their natural lives. The greater number of them accepted this conditional pardon, but many with great hesitation; eight, however, peremptorily refused to accept of mercy on such terms and preferred their former sentence of death. They were all seriously exhorted by the Court without effect, and were ordered to the condemned cells, but by the exhortation of Mr. Vilette, the Ordinary of Newgate, five of them altered their sentiments; the other three remain for execution.

Canterbury, Sept. 22.

ROCHESTER, SEPT. 21, 1789.

The Bank of ROCHESTER, CHATHAM, and STROOD, for which preparations have been making for some months past, under the Firm of Mess. David Day, of the Little Hermitage, near Rochester; Thomas Hulks, Strood; Jacob Caseneuve Troy, Chatham; John Sabb, Southwark; and Webster Gillman, Rochester. is opened this day, at Mr. Gillman's House, in the High-street, Rochester, where the proposals at large may be had.—The notes issued by this Bank are payable at sight, at Rochester, or at the Hon. Baron Dimsdale, Sons, Barnard, and Staples, Bankers, No. 50, Cornhill, London.

Yesterday afternoon, agreeable to invitation, a respectable company of near 200 of the electors of this city dined with Sir Horace Mann, Bart. at Bourn Place. To accommodate so numerous a guest, Sir Horace erected a temporary building adjoining his ball room, which enabled him to dine the whole company together. After the dinner, which was excellent, Sir Horace addressed his numerous company, to whom he paid the most flattering encomiums, for the honor they had that day conferred on him by becoming his guests; and having in a great measure repeated the words he had used to the corporation, which may be seen in his speech at large to that body, he concluded with observing that reports had been circulated he had convened this meeting to answer sinister views; to obviate every aspersion of this kind, he in the most pointed terms declared he would not interfere in the election of members for the city of Canterbury, so long as the present sitting gentlemen chose to offer their services, and even if the freemen should return him he would vacate his seat, unless it was attended by a voluntary decline of either of the present members, which he had no reason to expect.

A declaration at once so pointed and disinterested was received with the most unbounded applause; his compliments on the city merited the thanks of all present; and we believe the whole left this hospitable mansion truly inspired with the strongest friendship for the welfare of its owner.—We are sorry the shortness of the time prevents our making further remarks.

"The notoriously cruel and unheard of events that have taken place during the revolution in this country can hardly have escaped the notice and observation of yours—which, with all its remains of Gothic vulgarity and roughness of manners, has not yet, and I hope never will, exhibit such scenes of horrid and sanguinary enormities as have been too long practised among us.

"Many of the Nobles, for only having uttered a few words in their own favour, have had their heads immediately taken off, and then carried

On Saturday ended the Grand Match of Cricket in Bourn Paddock, between the Allington Club, and the Bourn and Bridge, which terminated in favor of the latter, with seven wickets to go down.

On Tuesday evening was finished a Grand Match of Cricket, on Penenden Heath, near Maidstone, between BOORMAN and CLIFFORD, and four other picked men of Kent, for 150 guineas, on which very considerable bets were depending. The game terminated in favor of BOORMAN.

Palmer went in, and got the run, which decided the game.

In the night of Friday the 11th instant, or early on Saturday morning the parish church of West Malling, was broke into, and robbed of the gold lace fringe of the desk and pulpit cloths; and the same night, the parish church of Wrotham, underwent a similar fate, with this difference, the loss of all the Communion Plate.

Saturday was committed to St. Dunstan's gaol, by John Carter, Esq. David Watson, late of Stetly-Toll-Bar, near Workop, in the county of Nottinghamshire, stocking-weaver, for having feloniously entered the dwelling-house of Peter Johnson, of Hougham in this county, labourer, in the day time, on Thursday last, and stealing from thence three silver table spoons, value 4s.—The above David Watson is not more than 17 years of age.

So very outrageous are the felons confined in his Majesty's gaol at Maidstone, that it is almost impossible for the keeper and his man to keep them in any subjection. On Friday the 11th instant, in the night they attempted to burrow down into the common sewer, but being heard they were prevented. The Monday following they found means to pick two locks that went into an empty ward, there secreted themselves in the day time; here they had made a very considerable breach by pulling down the planking of the wall, and taking away the stonework of the windows with an intent to take the windows entirely away, which they would have completed in less than half an hour more, and the whole body of prisoners must have been at large that night, but prevented by an information Mr. Watson re-

The following important Intelligence was received early this morning, dated the 14th inst. from a respectable Correspondent at Margate.

An express boat is just arrived from Ostend, with a letter for the Secretary of State, and some of the principal Bankers in London. The people who came with the express give a most alarming account of the situation of that place, that the whole is a scene of confusion, and that many families were leaving the city with the utmost dispatch when the express came away.

Private letters from Florence give an account of the death of the Right Hon. George Nassau Clavering Countess, &c.

"A few days ago Mr. Bridgeman, of Wington, being constable of the hundred, and having to take up a desperate man, put into his pocket a pistol, with the muzzle downwards, which accidentally went off, and lodged the ball with part of his buckle in his foot, which were afterwards safely extracted by Mr. Noakes of East-Bourne."

On Saturday last Thomas Clover was committed to gaol by the Mayor of this city, for feloniously stealing sundry articles of wearing apparel, the property of Mrs. Ann Perry.

Thursday last was married at Bridge, Mr. Kingland, to Miss Pett, mistress of the Red Lion, at that place.

Thursday was married at St. Mary's Iltington, William Parsons, Esq. of Haslemere, Surrey, to Miss Dennett, of Woolbeding, near Midhurst, Suffex.

Friday se'nnight died at Rocheater, in a very advanced age, Mr. Baker, one of the Aldermen of that city.

Last week died in a very advanced age, Mr. Gabriel Sequine, of St. Dunstan's near this city. A Well-Wisher to the Town of Sandwich shall appear in our next.
