

nison is to be one of the Counsel of the Duke of Clarence, instead of Sir George Clerk.—The Sun.

The King, who is at this moment so justly popular with the people, uttered lately a sentiment to a Noble Lord that is likely to endear him still more to his poorer subjects. Speaking of the present distresses his Majesty observed, "It was the wish of my revered father, that every poor man might be able to read his Bible—mine is, that every poor man in my dominions may be able to get work, and be happy!"

On the afternoon of Sunday last, three small children, whilst playing in the market-place, at Knarborough, picked up some poisonous matter in the shape of spice-cakes, which they ate, and so fatal was the effect, that two of them both girls, belonging to a poor man of the name of Longthorne, died shortly after. The other still survives, but it is not expected to recover.—Verdict, "Died in consequence of eating poison, picked up in the street."

CANTERBURY, April 20.

London, Thursday Night

A great variety of reports connected with the Administration about to be formed, continue to be circulated, arising more from conjecture than positive information. We have not heard, however, that Mr. Canning has proceeded much further in the nominations assigned to him. It is said that the correspondence between the Hon. Gentleman and the Marquis of Lansdowne has not yet been concluded, and a strong feeling prevails that his Lordship will become a Cabinet Minister. The rumour, for such it ought only to be treated, of the recall of Lord Granville from Paris, and of his appointment to the office of Secretary for Foreign Affairs does not gain ground, and at present the Marquis of Lansdowne, supposing that he joins the Cabinet, is more likely to fill that office than the British Ambassador at Paris.

Although it is said that it has been intimated to Mr. Peel, that the King would be gratified at his return to the post he has just vacated, it does not appear that the Hon. Gentleman has shown any disposition to take advantage of the intimation, being more disposed to enjoy with an immense fortune, his otium dignitate.

As Monday last was a holiday at Paris, the effect of the Ministerial changes here could not be ascertained very correctly, as far as regarded the public securities. Some bargains had been made privately in the French Funds on nearly the same terms as during the week preceding. Nor was it expected on the recommencement of business at the French Stock Market, that any material depression would occur in the prices.

THE MONEY MARKET.—There is evidently some disappointment felt in the city, that Mr. Canning has not yet succeeded in filling up the vacant offices of the Cabinet, and fears are beginning to be entertained that he will abandon the task assigned him by his Majesty. This has been one cause of the depression in the public funds to-day, but it has not exceeded $\frac{1}{4}$ per cent. Another is the sale of a great quantity of money stock, principally 3 per Cent. Consols, to an amount little short of a million, which added to the delivery of about £250,000. sold a day or two since, counteracted the favorable influence of the purchases of the Commissioners.

To-day they received 3 per cent. Consols at 85 $\frac{1}{2}$, and would have been obliged to give 83 $\frac{1}{2}$, had not one Broker offered the Stock at the first price, and his example was followed by the other dealers. Nothing but the extraordinary abundance of Money prevented a further reduction on the large supply of Stock just referred to. The extent of the decline in Consols for Account up to the close of business, was from 83 $\frac{1}{2}$ buyers to 83, and were for a moment offered at the latter quotation, but left off at 83 $\frac{1}{2}$ sellers.

The last prices were these:—Red. Ann. 82 $\frac{1}{2}$ —Consols 83—Ditto for Acct. 83 $\frac{1}{2}$ —Long Ann. 19 $\frac{1}{4}$ —3 $\frac{1}{2}$ per Cents.

The lovers of sport were disappointed on Tuesday last, as the Annual Easter Plate on Barham Downs was not contested, Mr. Hawkins' grey horse having walked over the course for it.

It is reported in the naval department at Sheerness, that the residence of the Admiral of the Medway is to be removed from Chatham to Sheerness, and that Government has purchased a large building, lately erected by Sir Edward Banks, at Banks' Town, Sheerness, which was designed for an hotel, for the Admiral's residence.

The brig Polydora, Captain H. Huckfeldt, from New Orleans, bound to Hamburgh, passed Dungeness on Sunday, in good order.

The ship Bolivar, William Smith, master, from Singapore, touched at Cork for orders, bound to Antwerp, and was off Dungeness on Tuesday, all well.

On Easter Monday, the annual Vestry Meeting was held at Margate, for the purpose of choosing Churchwardens, when Mr. Mercer, builder, was elected for the year ensuing, and Mr. White re-elected. Other parish affairs were also gone through. The new Officers accompanied by about fifty other Gentlemen met in the afternoon at Mr. Creed's, (White Hart Tavern,) and there partook of an excellent dinner, at which the Rev. F. W. Baylay presided.

The annual festival of the Hythe Friendly Society, on Monday last, afforded a gratifying exhibition. The club consists of about 260 members, and 53 gentlemen of the town and neighbourhood have become honorary members thereof. After the necessary business of the day had been adjusted at the club room, the society went in procession to church, preceded by music and banners; where an excellent and appropriate sermon was delivered by the Rev. Edward Boteler, and heard with great attention. The dinner, plentiful and substantial, of which upwards of 200 partook, was at the Guildhall; Mr. Watts in the chair; and the utmost order and propriety were maintained. And "when the sun had sunk" the chairman complimented the members on their conduct throughout the day, and they departed to their homes in the most creditable manner. The funds of the society amount to upwards of £1750.

That most munificent patriotic Nobleman, the Earl of Egremont, is at present adding a new spire to the Church at Petworth, in Sussex, at his sole expence. This it is said will cost from 8 to 10,000 \textsterling . It is not two years since his Lordship gave 3000 \textsterling . towards the establishment of an Hospital at Brighton; and very lately he has made a present to the Company, of the whole of his interest in the Chichester and Arundel Canal, valued, we believe, at from 20 to 30,000 \textsterling . It would be difficult, we imagine, to find a parallel to this munificence.

A host of holiday folks on their route to Greenwich, on Monday, observing a man noticing with a pencil the number of outside passengers on the different coaches passing, conceiving him to be a common informer, gave him such a severe thrashing as will possibly prevent his observations in public for the future.

ROBBERY.—One night last week, a daring robbery was committed in the house of Mr. Matthews, residing near James's Hotel, Woolwich, by some thieves, who entered the premises by the basement stoey which is below the level of the road; they regaled themselves with roast beef and what else the dairy contained, with a considerable quantity of brandy and water, leaving their supper things for the servant of the house to clear away; they decamped with a large quantity of plate, and have hitherto eluded detection.

LUNAR RAINBOW.—That rare and beautiful phenomenon, a lunar rainbow, was seen at two o'clock in the morning of the 7th instant, at Court-at-Street, Lympne, in this County. The colours were strong, and very distinct, but of course not so vivid as the solar rainbow.—The evening before there was both thunder and lightning

Two ships are now lying at Woolwich for the purpose of conveying female convicts to New South Wales and Van Dieman's Land. The Princess Charlotte is bound to the former, and the Persian to the latter place. The total number of women that will be sent away will be nearly 200; upwards of 80 have been already removed from Newgate on board the above ships.

Thomas Rogers was lately convicted of stealing broom from Lord Guilford's woods, and sentenced to a month's imprisonment and hard labour.

Sunday evening last, between seven and eight o'clock, as a girl of the name of Sarah Andrews, was coming from Fordwich, in company with two more females and a man, to this city, and on arriving at the turnpike gate, near the barracks, two of the girls, (one of which was Andrews) went into a cottage close by to see a friend, while the other two proceeded towards Canterbury; they had not walked on far however, before they heard the shrieks of a female, and conjecturing that it might be that of their companion Andrews, who promised to overtake them, they went back and observed a soldier running off with all possible speed, and at no great distance from them they discovered the poor girl Andrews lying on the ground with her clothes much disordered, and apparently in a state of insensibility. It appeared she was hastening on to overtake her companions, having left the other female at the above cottage, but was intercepted by a soldier, who began to take indecent liberties with her and at last succeeded in throwing her down, and in attempting to violate her person, he was unexpectedly disturbed by the appearance of the two persons in question, who arrived in time to frustrate the diabolical purpose of the villain. He has not yet been discovered. The girl, who is only 15 years of age, has sustained much injury from the fright.

The Macadamizing the streets of Rochester and Chatham affords such tranquillity and quiet to the in-dwellers of the houses in the high streets, and is spoken of as so highly preferable to the stony pavement roads, that it is in contemplation to extend the system to Dover, where at times, on the coaches' departures and arrivals, it is impossible for parties in the front rooms of the houses to hear each other speak, much less carry on conversation.

On Saturday last, a gentleman, passenger on one of the London coaches from the Coast, complained of being unwell, on the road from Canterbury to Ovingdean, and when he arrived at the Lion Inn, at the latter place declined going any further. Medical assistance was procured, and every other attention paid him; but he died in a few hours after his arrival. We understand the deceased gentleman was a Colonel Munro, and had considerable property in his possession. A Coroner's Inquest has returned a verdict of "Died by the visitation of God." He is to be buried on Sunday next, at Faversham.

James Phelan, aged 14, was on Saturday committed at Dover for trial at the next General Sessions, by Joseph Webb Pilcher, Esq. charged with stealing from the shop of Mr. W. B. Claringbould, at the place, more than 30 pairs of men and women's shoes.

Wheat remains as on Monday, with scarcely any transactions doing. Barley for malting continues scarce, and fully maintains last quotation, but grinding parcels are by no means in demand. Oats are quoted nominally as on last market-day, but the business done has been unworthy of notice. In Beans and Peas, and other descriptions of Grain, there is nothing yet doing.

PORTUGUESE PAPERS.

Office of the Secretary of State for the Affairs of War, January 16.

Extract from the Official Dispatches received to-day in this Office:—

The Count of Villa Flor writes from Pinhel, on the 12th, stating that the whole force under his command passed the night in that city, whence he had advanced without any thing new having occurred. After the action of the 9th, the rebels never halted except beyond the Coa, and had occupied Almeida, Sinco Villas, Villas de Torpim, and Malpartida. There is reason to believe that they intend to pass into the Spanish territory.

The militia continue to abandon the rebels; and more than 200 men of the 6th Infantry, besides some Officers, have already presented themselves to Count Villa Flor.

The loss of the rebels on the 9th was very considerable; they had 200 wounded.

Lieutenant General Stubbs writes from Oporto, on the 14th, that Lieutenant General the Marquis de Angeja occupied Villa Real on the 12th. Colonel Vasconcelas, of the 16th Regiment, praises the good spirit of that corps.

Brigadier Jose Correa de Mello writes from Villa Ponca de Aguiar to Lieutenant General Stubbs, under date of the 11th, that the militia of Chaves had fled and dispersed before him, abandoning their arms; but that the troops of his squadron had encountered great difficulty in advancing to the Boticas, where, however, they arrived, having killed 40 Guerillas, and taken 16.

PINTO, Chief of the First Direction.

Extract from the official communications received by the Minister of War, on the 18th of January, 1827.

The Count de Villa Flor writes from Pinhel, under date of the 14th instant, as follows:—"Referring to my last dispatch, dated the day before yesterday, I have the honour to acquaint your Excellency, that by the reconnoissance I made yesterday upon the Coa, I find that the rebels do not intend to dispute the passage of that river. Of this I am the more convinced from the accounts I have received up to the present moment, and consequently I am preparing to march to-night, so that I may be back of day before Almeida, whose garrison, consisting of the militia regiment of Tondella, sent to me this day offering me the possession of the fortress.

The rebels have retired into the Portuguese villages nearest to the frontier, and I understand from the Officers and soldiers who have deserted from them, and who this day have presented themselves to me, that the utmost discord prevails among them, and the troops accuse their Officers of having deceived them.

PINTO, Chief of the First Direction.
