

Domesday Book

General Editor: John Morris

THE ONLY COMPLETE, UNIFORM TRANSLATION IN 900 YEARS is now available in 40 inexpensive volumes, published in parallel with the original Latin text; complete with indices of people and places, maps, notes and glossaries in each county volume. The work of some fifty Domesday scholars over nearly twenty years, based on University College, London, with generous financial support from the Leverhulme Trust, the edition has been published by Phillimore, the leading local history specialists.

The entire work is now within reach of the historian, library or school, at only £400 in the Library Edition (cloth bound and jacketed) or £250 in the Students' Edition (paperback). For those interested only in one or two counties, each county volume is available separately. Orders may be placed with all good booksellers, or in case of difficulty, direct to the publisher, adding £1.00 per volume towards post and packing or £10.00 per complete set. (U.K.)
